'Optimistic' Outlook For Farmers

By Matt Spireng

KINGSTON

With a bumper crop of apples and other fruits predicted and sweet corn and vegetables "doing well," the prospects seem bright for Ulster County farmers this year despite — and in some instances because of — the heavy rains during the past week.

But with increased costs of everything from fertilizer to machine parts for the farmer and higher costs of distribution and other items between the farmer and the market, consumers apparently should not look for lower prices in the weeks and months to come.

Concerning apples — Ulster County's leading crop — William H. Palmer, agricultural agent with the local office of the Cooperative Extension Service said, "So far all the prospects are excellent. And this holds true for most tree fruits."

Estimates thus far indicate that apple production in the county may run 20 percent ahead of last year, according to Palmer, who explained that the wet weather has yet to cause any problems.

In fact, for the corn crop the rains may well have saved the day, Palmer indicated.

Sweet corn had been suffering from a lack of water before the rains came, he explained. "We needed the rain," he said.

Of course, the wetness has caused some minor problems for sweet corn growers who have already started picking in their now somewhat soggy fields with the heavy machinery that can get bogged down in the mud.

Sweet corn volume should be about the same as last year for Ulster County, and with reports of major crop damage in New Jersey, Ulster County farmers might indirectly benefit at the market. The same holds true for the vegetable market, Palmer said.

Dairy farmers have had a bit of a problem making hay, Palmer told the Freeman, as the result of poor curing weather following the first cutting in June and heavy rain now when the second cutting is due to begin. But drier weather with low humidity in the upcoming weeks could help the dairy farmers.

Some home vegetable gardeners have had problems as a result of the weather conditions, which have leached nutrients from the soil, and reports of problems with deer are more widespread this year than ever before, according to Palmer.

Despite the generally optimistic crop predictions for the county, everything may not be rosy for the farmers or the consumers.

"Cost increases really have been of great concern to farmers," Palmer said. "And they aren't just sounding a false alarm."

With the costs of production and distribution increasing as they are, the agricultural agent said he "can't see any way out" of higher prices at the market place.

Then, too, bumper crops can mean low prices to the farmer even though prices are high at the market place. Palmer cited a situation which developed when a good sweet cherry crop materialized earlier this year; prices paid to farmers dropped to a point where the grower would lose money by picking the fruit, and several growers in southern Ulster County were forced not to pick.

Such a problem could arise with apples and the other fruits yet to be picked, Palmer said, explaining that the growers are "running a little scared" at this point. Whether or not they make money on the predicted bumper crop won't be known until well into next year, long after all the expenses for producing the crop have been incurred.

Yet the outlook at present is "optimistic" Palmer said.

Pacific Splashdown Will End Era

Astros Heading Home

HOUSTON (UPI) — America's three astronauts readied the last of the Apollos for a Pacific Ocean splashdown today to end a pioneering era of spaceflight that sent 24 men to the moon and kept others in orbit up to 12 weeks.

The landing from the nine-day, 307-orbit mission was set for 5:20 p.m. EDT.

Thomas Stafford, Vance Brand and Donald "Deke" Slayton began their final day in space after their two Russian comrades said at a Moscow news conference that the historic joint flight went "as smooth as peeled eggs."

The three astronauts were awakened by the tune "Redneck Mother" radioed up from Houston control at 8:27 a.m. EDT. "The party's over and it's time to come home," said ground communicator Robert Crippen.

The return of Stafford, Brand and Slayton marked the last planned ocean landing by U. S. spacemen, last parachute descent, last flight of the Apollo and the last time Americans go in space before 1979.

The astronauts also met men of another nation in space for the first time, flew together for 44 hours of joint experiments and ceremonies, and opened what world leaders hailed as a new epoch of international cooperation in exploring space and solving scientific problems closer to home.

"It's a mission of firsts and lasts and still a beginning all in one," said flight director Frank Littleton.

The return also came on the 25th anniversary of the first rocket launch from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The veteran recovery ship USS New Orleans cruised 322 miles west of Honolulu, ready to pick up the pilots' cone-shaped command module. The weather was good — partly cloudy skies, good visibility and four-foot seas.

Stafford, Brand and Slayton were bringing back six Russian flags, a large United Nations flag and medals and plaques carried into orbit by cosmonauts Alexei Leonov and Valeri Kubasov when they opened the international mission nine days ago.

Because of the space shuttle Johnson Space Center Director Christopher Kraft, flight director for the pioneering Mercury spaceflights, said the outlook for America's space business is brighter now than ever despite the upcoming hiatus.

"I'm as much excited about the next five years of what we're going to do as I was about the last 17 years of what we've done," he said in an interview.

Alan Shepard, now a reporter covering the Apollo-Soyuz flight, opened the nation's manned spaceflight era with a brief up-and-down flight May 5, 1961. Since then there have been 30 more manned missions, sending 43 Americans into space.

Even before Stafford, Brand and Slayton reached the Pacific, U.S. space agency and Soviet officials were planning goodwill tours for both crews. The Americans are expected to visit Russia for 10 days to two weeks in August with the Russians making a similar U.S. tour.

"Many countries have already sent in invitations for the Soviet crew," said Georgi Beregovoi, head of the Yuri Gagarin Cosmonaut Training Center. "Together with their American colleagues, they will evidently make a tour of the world."

'Smooth As PeeledEggs'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soyuz 19 commander Alexei Leonov, back in Moscow for a hero's welcome, told newsmen today there were no frictions on the joint space flight with an American Apollo and "everything went as smooth as peeled eggs."

He said although the United States and the Soviet Union existed under different systems, "We did not try to convince our American colleagues to support the Soviet system and they did not try to convince us to support the capitalist system."

Leonov, newly promoted to major general in the Red air force, and Valeri Kubasov, his civilian engineer, returned from Baikonur cosmodrome Wednesday to a welcome of hugs and joyful tears from their relatives and handshakes and flowers from colleagues.

Their joint news conference in Moscow today was their first meeting with foreign newsmen since their return from space Monday.

"To the astronauts, Valeri Kubasov and I want to say, thank you for your big job and good luck to Tom Stafford, Vance Brand and Deke Slayton. I am sure we will meet you soon after your landing," Leonov said, speaking in English.

"We did a very great job," Leonov said. "Everything went as smooth as peeled eggs."

Kubasov told the astronauts in his deep-toned English "Good luck and soft landings tonight."

The cosmonauts said they feared their biggest problem in space would be language. "We had no translator, but we understood each other very well," Leonov said.

He described the astronauts as "very good working pilots, good fathers and good husbands." He said "We like them very much." During his visits to the United States he found "more similarities than differences."

Kubasov said "We took time off from our rest periods to spend with the Americans and I hope the problems we solved could be solved just as well between our countries."

Leonov, who is an artist, said the most impressive sight of the joint flight came when Apollo backed off and blotted out the sun in an artificial eclipse. Vladimir Kotelnikov, acting president of the USSR Academy of Sciences, said the future probably would make it possible "not only for sturdy young men of good physique to go into space but older scientists like myself."

Leonov wore the crisp new uniform of a major general in the Red Air Force. He was promoted from colonel Tuesday and hailed as the Soviet Union's premier space explorer.

Kubasov sported a civilian suit and an ear-to-ear grin as he and his comrade strode from their special jetliner onto the airport tarmac.

With their friends and families standing patiently to one side, Leonov and Kubasov stood at attention before their superiors in the Soviet space program.

"The Soyuz 19 crew has fully carried out its program," Leonov said. "We feel well and are prepared to carry out a new assignment."

He then snapped a salute, but as his arm fell the two men were engulfed by their wives and children.

Although the airport was kept clear of the public and foreign correspondents, the spectacle was shown repeatedly Wednesday night on television.

After the family reunions, the cosmonauts shuttled to the nearby suburb of Zvyozdny Gorodok, the "star city" where Soviet spacemen live and train.

The Tass news agency said the two men were given a "grand meeting" by their colleagues and workers at the complex.

Nation's Poor White Families Suffer Brunt of Recession

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The family income of all Americans —especially poor whites — took a pounding in the recession, Census Bureau figures show.

The median income of the nation's 58 million families fell in 1974 to $12,836 from $13,373 in 1973.

At the same time, the number of Americans living below the government's official poverty level rose 5.6 percent in 1974, to 24.3 million.

That means about 12 percent of the U.S. population is considered "poor" by federal standards.

The government's poverty threshold, which is adjusted upward each year to compensate for the rising cost of living, is now $5,038 for an urban family of four.

The 4 percent slide in median family income, first since small declines in 1970 and 1971, is bound to continue through 1975, since the recession did not really get under way until late last year.

The income figures were computed in so-called "constant dollars" to eliminate the distortions of last year's exceptionally large 11 percent inflation rate. In "current dollars," median family income rose 7 percent from $12,051 in 1973.

Median income means half of all families earned more than the median figure and half less.

The Census Bureau's figures show low-income whites were hit especially hard in 1974. The number of white persons below the poverty line jumped 8 percent, or 1.1 million, to 16.3 million.

Blacks in the "poor" category numbered 7.5 million, essentially unchanged from a year earlier, the Bureau said.

The comparisons of income by racial group also showed the gap that separates black and white families narrowed slightly last year for the first time in the 1970s.

The median income of a white family of two adults and two children was $13,360 and for their black counterparts, $7,810. Thus, black family income averaged 59 percent of a white family's, an increase of 1 percent over 1973.

Black Professor Files Discrimination Charges

NEW PALTZ

Officials at the State University College at New Paltz have declined substantive comment on allegations of race and age discrimination filed last week by a part-time sociology professor at the college.

"This is his right, and we encourage him to follow the rights accorded to him under the law," said a college spokesman Monday. He did not, however, comment on the merits of the case, or answer the specific allegations.

The charges were leveled by Ass't. Prof. Howard E. Johnson, who has taught sociology and black studies courses at New Paltz since 1971, and who, since last November, has been embroiled in a tenure controversy with college officials. Johnson filed the formal petition alleging discrimination with the New York State Division for Human Rights in Albany last week.

Johnson said the petition was filed because normal grievance procedures at the local level, stipulated under the current faculty contract, do not permit questions of discrimination to be raised.

The 60-year-old black sociology professor was denied tenure last year by college president Stanley I. Coffman Jr., who considered recommendations by the Sociology Department, the dean of administration and the vice-president for administration before announcing his decision. Only the sociology department recommended tenure.

Johnson has claimed all along that he was denied tenure because of his outspoken and opinionated views. Administration officials, however, have consistenly maintained that the decision was reached on an academic basis only.

Although Johnson was denied tenure — a move that normally results in dismissal from the college — a compromise of sorts was reached after students heatedly protested the administration's actions last fall. Johnson was signed to a three-year, part-time, no-tenure contract which expires in 1977. He said at the time that he considered the contract a "partial victory" and promised to continue his fight for tenure.

And Johnson has kept his word. Although he has lost appeals to both the college president and the state university chancellors, he has yet another hearing scheduled next month before the personnel relations division of the State Education Department.

Johnson, however, said he has "no confidence" in the appeals system, and for that reason will pursue his case before the independent Division for Human Rights. The procedure calls for an initial conciliation hearing; if that fails to resolve the conflict, a public hearing is held. A spokesman at the division's Albany office said it will probably be several months before the conciliation hearing is scheduled.

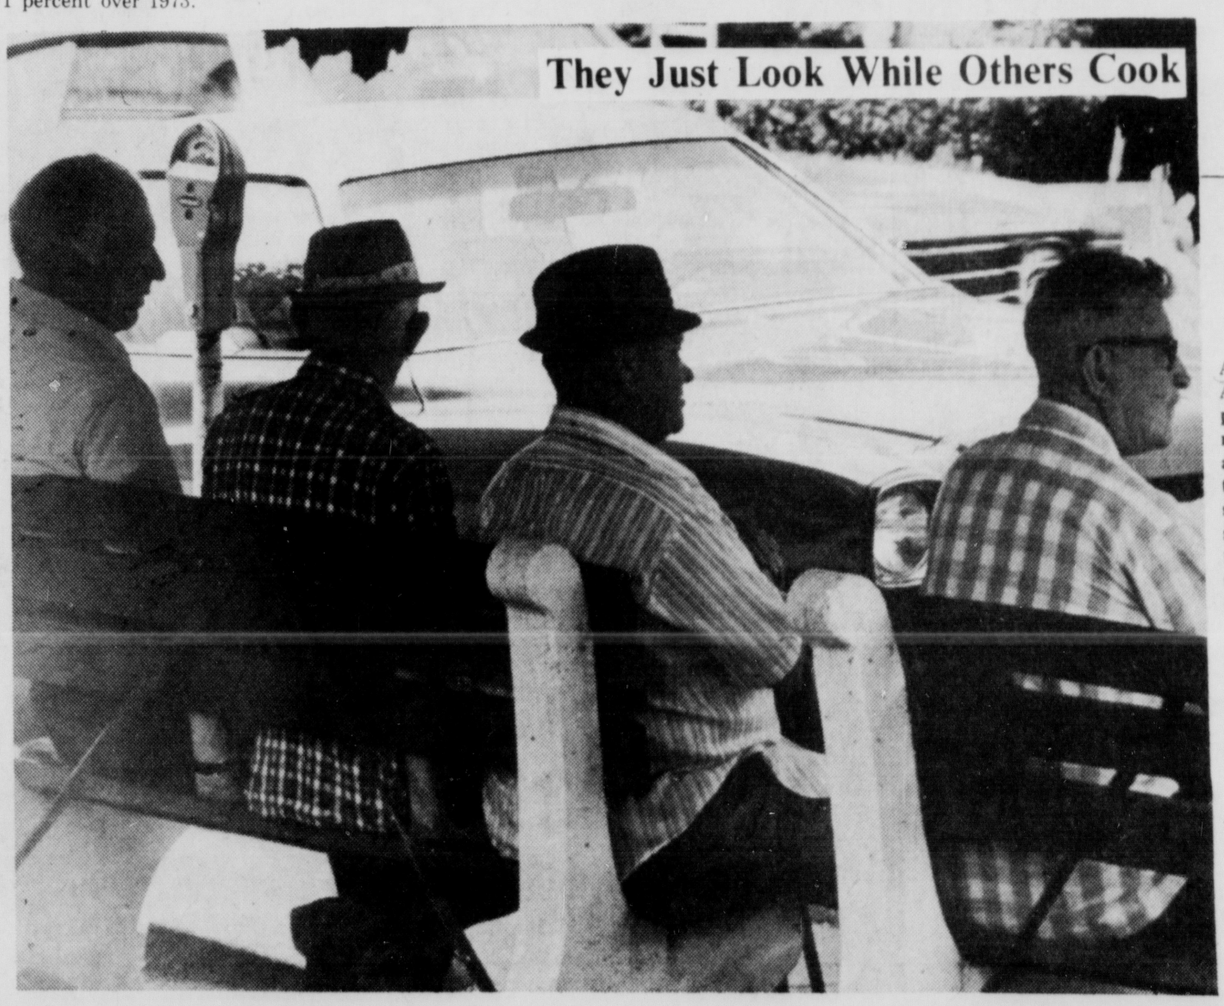

Johnson said he is charging racial discrimination because of findings which he says revealed that just three of the 390 tenured teachers at New Paltz are black. His charges of age discrimination are based on his feelings that, at age 60, he would be unable to find employment at another university.

The college spokesman emphasized Monday that Johnson's petition with the state will not have any effect on his employment at the college. "He is certainly entitled to pursue all the avenues," said a college official.

Local Car Sales Said Better, as Dealers Keep Inventory Low

KINGSTON — New car sales are up slightly from this spring for most area dealers interviewed, and they are keeping a watchful eye on inventories of 1975 models.

The new models from Detroit are slated to make their grand entrance in late September or early October, and a bit later for some foreign imports.

Those in the market for a new car often await the "leftovers" sales accompanying the introductions of new models.

Perhaps the sales manager for Tom Gewant Ford-Mercury in Kerhonkson summed up a prevalent feeling best: "We're not doing badly on inventory. We don't want to be in the same position as last year."

Last year, with the one-two punch of a recession and soaring gasoline prices, many dealers were left with a fleet of large model new cars that did not move.

Tom Gewant's is restricting inventory on full and intermediate sized cars and trying to keep up with some smaller models ("We can hardly keep the Cordoba in stock") as there is "a little bit more activity" in car sales, but "very irregular."

These "irregularities" in the public's buying attitudes can be evidenced in this Gewant statement: "Last month we sold more used cars than new; this month new cars are outselling used 2-1." New 1976 Fords are expected Oct. 3.

A sampling of some others: Michael Chevrolet of Kingston, with new models due in late September, notes sales are "much better" and the dealer has been running "constant sales on different models."

Johnson Ford says sales have "picked up the last month or so" as "June was our best month this year, and July may be better." And a bit of wishful thinking, "People find they can put off getting a car for only so long."

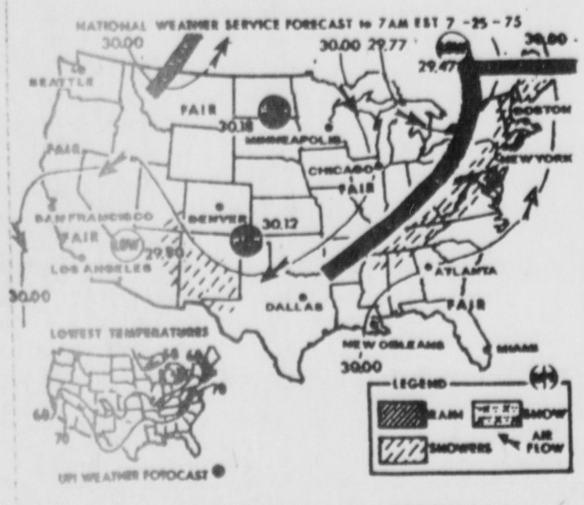

Musiker Toyota, where the 1976 models do not come out until December, reported "we haven't suffered as some others have" as the "number one imported car this year." There was still room for improvement, however, as "business is getting better."

DeMicco Motors of Kingston has "no definite date" for the 1976 Dodge models but places it "somewhere in October." DeMicco stated that the inventory is "not large" and "cars are moving." Sales are "up from this spring and about on a par with last year."

Kingston Chrysler-Plymouth expects new models the end of October. Inventory there was "very low," with the only model overstocked a four-wheel drive winter vehicle that did not live up to expectations because of a mild winter, it was thought. Smaller car sales were deemed "very good" and sales have "picked up somewhat in June and July."

At Amerling Volkswagen, Town of Ulster, "sales have improved a fair amount." There have been no great inventory problems. "We have established a good relationship with our clientele and have a steady business," it was reported.

Whatever the make or model of one's personal interest, the time is fast approaching when the hungry buyer will be able to pick over the leftovers. It appears the range of choice depends on how popular your model was this summer.

Court Action Today for Dutchess CSEA

POUGHKEEPSIE (UPI) — Union leaders were to appear in county court today to show cause why a preliminary injunction should not be issued to end a strike by 1,000 Dutchess County employes.

Members of the local Civil Service Employees Association walked off their jobs Friday and set up picket lines at nine locations in Poughkeepsie and Beacon.

About 400 members attended a rally here Wednesday and heard speakers urge them to hold out until the county met their demands.

Earlier this week the union leadership rejected a three-year agreement of a 6.5 percent increase this year, with cost-ofliving increases in the next two years.

The union seeks an increase of 8.5 percent in the first year, 8 percent in the second, and a cost of living increase for the third year.

Much of the strike activity has centered around the Dutchess County Office Building and the neighboring courthouse here.

The strike affects, among other agencies, the motor vehicle office, the community college, the health and welfare departments and the public works department.

Negotiations between the county and its workers began in June, 1974. The union had been working without a contract since Dec. 31.

Fish Endorses Candidate Ford

WASHINGTON — "I'm 100 percent behind him," was Cong. Hamilton Fish Jr.'s response to President Ford's announcement last week that he was an "official" candidate for election.

"I never had any reason to doubt he would run," Fish told the Freeman from the nation's capital. "I'm fully in support of him."

Fish's announcement follows a similar statement by Cong. Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th Dist.) who in a letter to Ford wrote, "America will need your strong and vital leadership in the years to come as we continue to struggle with the critical problems facing our nation. I am looking forward to working with you in 1976 and I assure you of my wholehearted and sincere support."

Ford wrote back to Gilman that he was "deeply grateful" for his support, adding, "I, too, look forward to the coming months as a time when we will work together for America."

Ford has campaigned for both congressmen, visiting Fish's old 28th District in 1968 as House Minority Leader and last year as vice president. He campaigned for Gilman in 1972 and in 1974.

"The vast majority of those of us in congress are pleased with his performance," Fish said. "He is certainly the most popular vote-getter in the Republican Party and the logical choice," the 25th District Republican added.

As for vice president, Fish said that choice was up to Ford. "That judgment is made late in the spring or at the convention itself," Fish said. "Gov. Rockefeller (the incumbent) realizes no one runs for vice president."

A Day For the Children

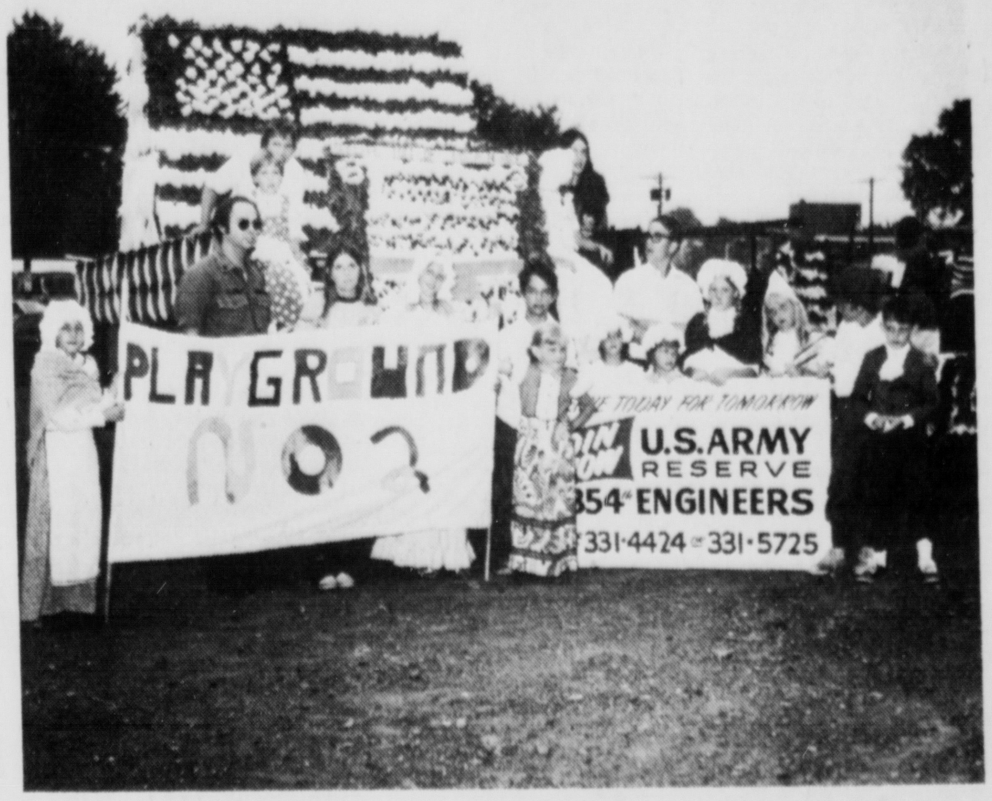

KINGSTON

Blessed by clear skies, the Ninth Annual Children's Day Parade snaked through the streets of Kingston Wednesday evening, to an enthusiastic reception from several thousand spectators.

Sponsored by the Kingston Recreation Department, this year's parade had a Bicentennial theme, with floats depicting various aspects and events related to the war for independance and the founding of the world's oldest democracy.

The floats were created by children at the various parks and playgrounds throughout the city who are participating in the summer recreation program. Academy Green and Hasbrouck Park tied for top honors in the "best playground" category; the "best float" was the one prepared by the Children's Home.

The nine-division parade also featrued nine marching bands. As is their tradition, the Kingston Indians marched away with "best senior band" honors

County Committee Supports Camallonga; Vogt Probe Continues

By Lynn Mulvaney

KINGSTON

While Ulster County District Attorney Francis J. Vogt's Office is continuing its investigation to see if there is any basis for allegations of wrongdoings on the part of the County Highway Superintendent Jose Camallonga Jr., the county Bridge and Highway Committee has come to Camallonga's defense.

Vogt is conducting the investigation at the request of Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8).

In a report filed this week with the Ulster County Legislature the committee "unanimously approved of the job the superintendent is doing and gave him full support."

With regard to Camallonga renting county equipment to Orange County, it was agreed by the committee that this had been approved several years back "to rent our equipment to towns, villages and counties at the state set fee when our equipment was idle to defray the cost of the equipment to our county."

The report states further that the rental of striping equipment to Orange County was agreed to because Ulster had been advised that its paint would not be delivered by Baltimore Paint Company until July 18 or 20th. It was also pointed out that Camallonga had made a commitment to Orange to stripe their road. Ulster was furnished pick-up trucks by Orange for the men's transportation and anticipated that the work would be done before the paint delivery was made to Ulster.

Presently the striping equipment is back in Ulster, the paint has been delivered, and striping of county roads was begun this week.

The committee report states that the striping is only one week behind last year's schedule.

In a statement issued last week, Camallonga said that one of the reasons the county did not go ahead with its own striping was because it only had received its order of white paint and still needed delivery of yellow paint.

This statement has apparently been contested by some highway department employes but the bridge and highway committee explains it this way: Henry F. Rua, engineering aide, in a letter to Camallonga July 21 tells of his efforts to obtain delivery of paint.

He said that on July 3 the paint order was arriving. Inspection by Rua showed that there were five gallons of white and five gallons of yellow paint. "This supply of yellow paint would only be sufficient for two days of striping," he said. On July 9, an additional supply of white paint arrived, enough for 10 days of striping. At that time, the original order of 8,500 gallons of white and 7,500 gallons of yellow was still short 7,500 gallons of white and 3,600 gallons of yellow.

Ulster County buys its paint through state contract. This year the state contracts were late, accounting for the late delivery of paint, according to Camallonga.

Legislator Eugene K. Noe (R-Dist. 8) is chairman of the Ulster County Bridge and Highway Committee. Members include: Louis H. Bevier (R-Dist. 8), Philip H. Davis (R-Dist. 5), James F. Gilpatric (D-City), Larry E. Kithcart (D-City), Robert H. Kuhlmann (R-Dist. 7), C. Freeman Lasher (R-Dist. 1), Richard D. Nace Sr. (R-Dist. 2) and James F. Palen (R-Dist. 8).

'Waste' Controversy in Tillson

TILLSON

Tempers flared in stifling heat Wednesday night as the Rosendale Town Board held a public hearing on William Dalton's request to dump septic waste on a site he owns near Tillson.

About 150 persons crowded into the Tillson Fire House for the hearing, subjecting Dalton to extensive questioning and forcing Supervisor Richard Glazer to bang the gavel on numerous occasions to restore order.

Dalton has asked for a special use permit to dump sludge from his commercial waste collection company on a 176-acre site he owns on Coutant Road, just east of Tillson along the Thruway, a sparsely settled area now zoned for residential use. It has been approved by the town planning board. The Ulster County Planning Board reviewed the application and returned it to the town for local determination.

Dalton outlined his plans for the site. Waste would be dumped into a series of three settling pits, located on about six acres in the center of the site and completely fenced in. The proposed dumping station is about 1,000 feet from the Rondout Creek and about 600 feet from the Wallkill River and 900 feet from the nearest house, he said.

In response to questions, Dalton said he serviced about 1,000 septic tanks in the town, that he now dumps waste in Westchester County and in the Town of Marbletown, that he has applied for per-mission to dump in the new Town of Ulster sewage treatment plant and at a site near Phoenicia, and that the Tillson site would be used only for Rosendale waste "at this time," a qualification that brought a strong negative response from the audience.

Fred Hinners, who lives just north of Dalton's property, objected to its use for a dumping station, saying it was underlaid with shale that nothing would permeate. Hinners said that two springs on his property, down a steep 186-foot embankment from Dalton's site, already were polluted.

Several lawyers representing area residents, challenged the legality of the hearing, saying it had not been properly advertised and that information supposed to be available at the town clerk's office was either incomplete or unavailable.

"This is a public hearing, not a trial," Glazer replied. "If you want to challenge the legality of this meeting, do it in court."

Attorney Joseph Traficanti presented a 211-signature petition to the board objecting to Dalton's proposal.

Attorney Norman Kellar drew applause when he called the meeting illegal because and environmental impact statement had never been filed at the town clerk's office. Several others said they had been unable to get any information from the town clerk.

Town Attorney Martin Tully objected, saying that the statement had been filed "at least a month ago."

Other objections centered on alleged spills from Dalton's trucks (he used the site for a time before being issued a summons for violating a town ordinance), the narrow access road, which several persons said forced cars off onto private property when they met trucks, and questions about the safety of children walking to and from Tillson Elementary School, which trucks must pass to get to the dumping site.

One man charged that the town board was not following the master plan. Glazer said that no decision had been made yet and that under zoning regulations there is a mechanism to consider such requests for changes, and that the board is "following the zoning law to the letter."

Not all comments were unfavorable to Dalton. Several persons noted that he performed a necessary service, and Mrs. Dalton was applauded when she pointed out that their firm had never been cited for violations by the Ulster Cunty Board of Health and that their trucks had never been involved in an accident.

Glazer did not say when the board would consider Dalton's request.

Devine Hopes Board Carries Out 'Obligation'

KINGSTON

John Devine, who Tuesday night resigned as a member of the Kingston Consolidated School Board of Education said that he hopes the board carries out "a moral obligation" and selects as a replacement for him someone who is in opposition to the building of a new high school. By doing so it would reflect the sentiment of the electorate.

Devine resigned his post because his employer, IBM, is transferring him for temporary assignment in England, Sept. 1.

A new member of the board, Devine was one of the "anti-High School Quartet" which campaigned earlier this year on their opposition to the building of the new high school in Lake Katrine. All four won posts.

Board President Ward Todd, commenting on the selection of a replacement for Devine, acknowledged that there is division among board members concerning the merits of a new high school, but he said he didn't feel the question is germane anymore.

"There is no way we are going to build it," (the new high school) he said.

Devine said he felt the greatest accomplishment he had made as a school board member was in seeing that condemnation proceedings for acquisition of property for the new school were canceled.

Todd indicated that the most difficult thing the board will now be faced with will be the selection of a compromise candidate to fill Devine's seat in view of the philosophical division among members. He said the board will meet Thursday, July 31 to discuss possible candidates. He said he hoped that board members would give thoughtful individual consideration to the matter.

The board has two options in filling the vacancy. It may leave the post vacant until the board election next May or it may make an appointment to fill out the year which ends July 1, 1976. Then, whoever wins the May election, either the appointee or anyone else, that person would complete the remaining four years of Devine's five-year term.

The board, in 90 percent of such cases, has made an appointment rather than leaving the post vacant.

In what was considered an extraodinary election last spring, 7,000 voters turned out to elect four anti new high school candidates. They were in addition to Devine, Richard B. Skala, Josephine McKean and Ronald J. Meyer. They were victorious over pro-school candidates, Joseph Feraca, Milton Reynolds, Robert J. Markes and Len Cane. It is not known at this time if any of the four who lost the election would now be interested in the appointment.

Second Ellenville 'No' Vote

ELLENVILLE

The turnout was lighter this time but the message was unchanged— Ellenville Central School District residents Wednesday night voted down for a second time a proposed budget for the 1975-76 school year.

"Unhappy, upset, disappointed," was the reaction of Kenneth Beck, board of education president, to the voter turndown of the $5,251,853 budget proposal.

"We worked very hard to bring the budget down," Beck said, "we felt we had spelled it out, but apparently we didn't get across to the poeple."

the vote was 483 for and 745 against the budget. The total vote dropoff hurt the budget's chances of approval, since 744 voted against it June 4 while 501 approved. The second budget was slightly larger than the first ($5,242,603), with interest on bonded indebtdeness accounting for the change.

Beck said the board felt that any further cuts would seriously impede the quality of educational programs for the district, "that's why we presented it (the budget) as we did this time," he said. "We felt we were doing a good job in holding the increase from last year's budget to 7.5 percent at a time when other districts were raising their budgets much more."

Beck said the board would meet in closed session next Tuesday night to discuss possible courses of action. "We have three options," he said. "Further cuts, line items (as separate ballot propositions) or austerity."

A separate budget for the library also went down for a second time, 524 to 656, after losing on June 4 by a 568-609 margin.

YMCA Has 'Problem'

KINGSTON

The YMCA has appealed to those persons who mailed in building fund campaign checks or who made pledges during the period between July 5 and July 10 inclusive to contact the 'Y' for an accounting.

The reason is that the YMCA was burglarized during the early morning hours of July 11 and among the things stolen from the safe was a packet containing pledges and payments received during that period of time. The 'Y' has audited all pledges and payments through July 3.

YMCA officials ask anyone who made a pledge or payment that would have been received by the YMCA between the periods of July 5-10 to contact the 'Y' to confirm its receipt or loss.

'Y' officials have no firm idea on how many donations were affected although they have been coming in at the rate of between five and ten a day.

Koenig-Gallo Testimonial Slated

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

The Committee to Reelect Koenig-Gallo will hold its 1975 fund raising dinner at the Walnut Grove Aug. 20 with tickets going for $50 a head.

Under the latest laws of campaign financing, Koenig's reelection committee will be limited to collecting a total of 50 cents for each registered voter in the last gubernatorial campaign, or just over $7,000. Informed sources indicate 140 tickets have been printed for the event.

A survey of city hall also indicated that a good many of those tickkets are being solicited from city employes and their spouses, an outlay of $100 per family in some cases.

Grumblings have been heard at city hall where virtually every department has been hit —not only over the price— "who's got 50 bucks to lay out these days?" said one city employe—but also the method and manner of solicitation which seems to regard the donation as something of a duty. In most cases, city employes arrived home last week to find an envelope in the mail from the campaign committee containing two tickets and a note detailing where the check would go. Usually, such solicitations are accompanied by letters of appeal.

Albert A. Spada, Republican candidated for reelection as county clerk, also had a $50 a head fund raising dinner but the method of solicitation was different. In almost every case, the "personal approach" was employed; there is no indication of any letters going out. Spada's "testimonial" was also held at the Walnut Grove and it was a sellout, attracting some 400 persons.

Koenig raised over $6,000 two years ago at a similar function at Twalfskill Country Club with the area's first $50 a plate dinner.

However, this year's solicitation of city employes is believed to be unprecedented. "I would say that has not been the case in the past," said Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, dinner chairman for the Koenig testimonial.

Gorman said he was a "kind of honrary chairman" and wasn't "really aware" just who was being solicited.

He said he doesn't necessarily see anything "immoral or wrong" in the practice of seeking contributions from people with public jobs or appointments.

Gorman said he's already sent his $50 check in. He's a Koenig appointee, serving in a non-salried position as a director on the Kingston Laboratory board of managers.

Other members of the Koenig dinner committee include Mrs. Frank (Elizabeth) Sass and the mayor's brother, Joseph Koenig. Mrs. Sass, wife of Frank C. Sass, Koenig's running mate in 1963, serves as secretary while Joseph Koenig serves as treasurer of the committee.

Boat Explodes On Hudson

HIGHLAND

A 22½-foot cabin cruiser burned and sank in the Hudson River near Highland Wednesday night following an explosion. All five passengers on board, including a six-year-old girl escaped safely and were picked up by other craft on the water.

"The explosion threw everybody around," said the boat's owner, William Shay of Staatsburg. "Then we all made a dive for the kid, threw her in the water and we all went in after her."

"The kid," is Shay's daughter, Susan, 6. Also on the boat were his wife, Joanne, Robert Woods of Hyde Park, and Jane Motyka of Poughkeepsie.

"Thank God we had a rule, no kid on the boat without a life preserver," Shay said, explaining that only his daughter was wearing a life preserver.

The boat burned and sank "very quickly" Shay told the Freeman.

The Highland Fire Department was called out for the boat fire at 9:11 p.m., but could not reach the craft on the water.

Meanwhile in area police matters:

Saugerties Town Police are seeking three young white males who allegedly robbed a hitchhiker at knifepoint Wednesday afternoon.

Alfred Wilson, 22, of Saugerties was hitchhiking on Route 212 in Veteran, police said, when he was picked up in a light green Pontiac. Near Fish Creek Road two of the three occupants of the car threatened Wilson with knives and took his wallet, containing about $3.00.

When the car slowed down a short time later on Patch Road, Wilson was able to leap from the vehicle, which continued on, police said. Police had only sketchy descriptions of Wilson's assailants.

Saugerties Town Police arrested Charles Solitto, 30, of Catskill on a warrant charging him with first degree criminal possession of stolen property. Police said Solitto allegedly had items taken in a series of burglaries in Saugerties several months ago. He was released on $1,000 bail following arraignment.

Shortage of Canning Lids Has Grown To a Critical Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The shortage of home canning lids has gone from a serious threat to a critical problem in the past few weeks, according to government experts.

They say they don't know what to do about it.

More supplies are in the pipeline, they told a congressional hearing this week. But if hoarding and black marketing conhinue, consumers in many areas may never see them.

Nancy Steorts, consumer adviser to the Agriculture Department, suggested in her testimony the government might want to consider encouraging or even forcing stores to remove lids from jarlid combinations which are sitting unsold. She said that would free 100 million lids.

Home canning jars come with lids when bought new. But while the jars are reusable, the lids to seal them are not.

Mrs. Steorts said the Federal Trade Commission — which has announced an investigation into the situation — should follow several shipments of lids from the factory to the retail store to find out why industry production figures don't seem to jibe with supplies at the store level.

Two House members — Reps. Charles Rose, (D-N.C.) and Floyd Fithian, (D-Ind.) — qustioned a promotion General Foods is running for Sanka coffee under which the buyer can send in a label from the product and receive a dozen lids for 25 cents. Fithian said he understood GF had an arrangement with Kerr Jar Co. for 20,000 dozen lids and wondered if that was adding to the problem.

According to the Washington Star, Rose recently had his congressional staff buy 2,160 canning lids from Washington area stores to send to his constituents.

White House Consumer Adviser Virginia Knauer saif: "In many parts of the country right now (the shortage) has reached critical proportions. The harvests are starting to come in and canning lids are in tight supply. And with no other completely satisfactory method of preseving the crops available, the end result will be spoiling fruits and vegetables, and for many people severe economic losses.

"Home canners stand to lose — and to lose much," she added. "For many it will be a wasted summer and a hard winter."

Severe Frost in Brazil Could Mean Rise in Coffee Prices

By U P I

Coffee drinkers around the world may find the price of their morning cup rising sharply because of severe frost damage to Brazil's 1976 coffee crop.

The worst cold wave in 50 years has destroyed between 70 and 80 percent of Brazil's 1.2 billion coffee trees, which produce one-third of the world's coffee. The United States buys about 60 percent of Brazil's coffee exports.

The damage could uffect the world coffee supply in 1977 as well as next year, causing shortages that would drive prices still higher.

U.S. coffee roasting and manufacturing firms refused comment on the immediate impact of the frost on retail prices. But sources on the London coffee market — the world's largest coffee exchange —said the consumer may have to pay at least 40 percent more in 1976.

Prices of coffee for future delivery had soared 62 percent over a two-day period by early Tuesday, unf prices were driven higher by bargainhunters at the end of the session.

In Rio de Janeiro, the Brazilian coffee Institute predicted 70 percent, or half of next year's estimated crop of 28 million bags of coffee, may be lost. Brazil normally produces about 25 million bags, although this year's crop, already harvested, is only about 21 million bags.

Camipim calazans, president of IBC, said "for this year we have enough coffee to meet both our external and internal demands." But Calazans said Brazilians probably will have to pay more this year for their customary cup.

Brazil suspended expmrts pending an sxact determination of the crop loss.

A spokesman for a major U.S. coffee firm with interests in Brazil said the frost may have damaged 80 percent of Brazil's crop and cut 1976 production to 12 or 13 million bags.

"The frost was so severe that the Brazilian government and private trade interests are estimating the damage will reduce the 1977 crop to only 14 or 15 million bags," he said. n

"Because of the seriousnessn of the frost," the spokesman said, "the crop will not come back in one year as it normally would under less severe conditions." He predicted only a modest recovery in 1977.

Bologna Is Now A Bargain Food

By UPI

Retail prices are going up so steadily that some ordinarily expensive ready-to-eat cold cuts have become as economical for summer meals as many raw ready-to-cook meats.

The one exception this week among raw meats was ground chuck, a favorite for hamburgers and cookouts. The low mf 69 cenhs a pound was in a Los Angeles supermarket, according to UPI's weekly survey of food prices throughout the country. That was six cents below the average recorded during the base week of March 19.

Retail prices for ground chuck ranved between 86 cents in Pittsburgh and 99 cents in eight other cities, including Buffalo, Phoenix, Raleigh and Washington, D.C. The highs were $1.38 and $1.39 a pound in Atlanta and Miami.

The most economical cold cuts were chubs, or chunks, of unsliced bologna and liverwurst, often only 79 and 99 cents a pound in a survey made by Cornell University's Cooperative Extension Service. Ten other types of cold cuts, including olive and pickle loaves, cooked salami and beef bologna, were priced between $1.50 and $1.75 a pound in the study.

While there is no waste in such meats, they are not always as good a buy nutritionally as raw meats and poultry, which have a much higher protein contenh. n

Frozen french fries were five pounds for 71 in Washington, compared with the 43 cents a pound uverage in March. But the high, in Buffalo, was six cents above the average. n

Meat prices reached a record high last week in New York City, said consumer affairs commissioner Elinor Guggenheimer. But she is optimistic about the future. n

"The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports an increase in feed lot activity, which means that prices should start to go down by the fall," she said. She added prices for fresh potatoes still are rising because the new crop won't be harvested until the end of summer.

There were even a few good buys around in commercially grown fresh produce, despite earlier forecasts of high prices. The United Fresh Fruit anf Vegetable Association weekly market report, prepared exclusively for UPI, showed these specials in a Boston market: sweet corn, nine ears for 99 cents; cantaloupe, 49 cents apiece; and lettuce, three heads for $1 for iceberg, or 29 cents a bunch for romaine, red leaf or green leaf.

'JFK Opposed to Castro Assassination'... Smathers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President John Kennedy discussed, but firmly opposed, the possibility of an assassination plot against Cuban Premier Fidel Castro in the early 1960s, according to a close friend, former Florida Democratic Sen. George Smathers.

"He was very outspoken and wasn't interested in proceeding along that line at all, even though admitting that someone had suggested it to him. I don't know who it was," Smathers said after testifying before the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence Wednesday.

"He wanted to know what the reaction would be," Smathers said, "and I said it would be terrible if it got out in the United States and because no matter what Kennedy did it would be attributed to him."

CIA Director William Colby — and possibly other witnesses — were being called to testify further today on assassination plots.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has been called to appear in the near future. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., top Republican on the panel, said this "should not and must not be construed by anyone as an indication that there is any evidence linking the secretary with assassination plots."

Smathers' comments were the first public indication that such an assassination scheme ever got top-level consideration at the White House.

The Senate committee apparently has uncovered no solid evidence to suggest any U.S. president authorized any of the several alleged assassination schemes against Castro.

Smathers, who retired from the Senate in 1970, served as an usher at Kennedy's wedding to Jacqueline Bouvier. He has described Kennedy's views on assassination and the Cuban situation in an oral history tape for the Kennedy Library.

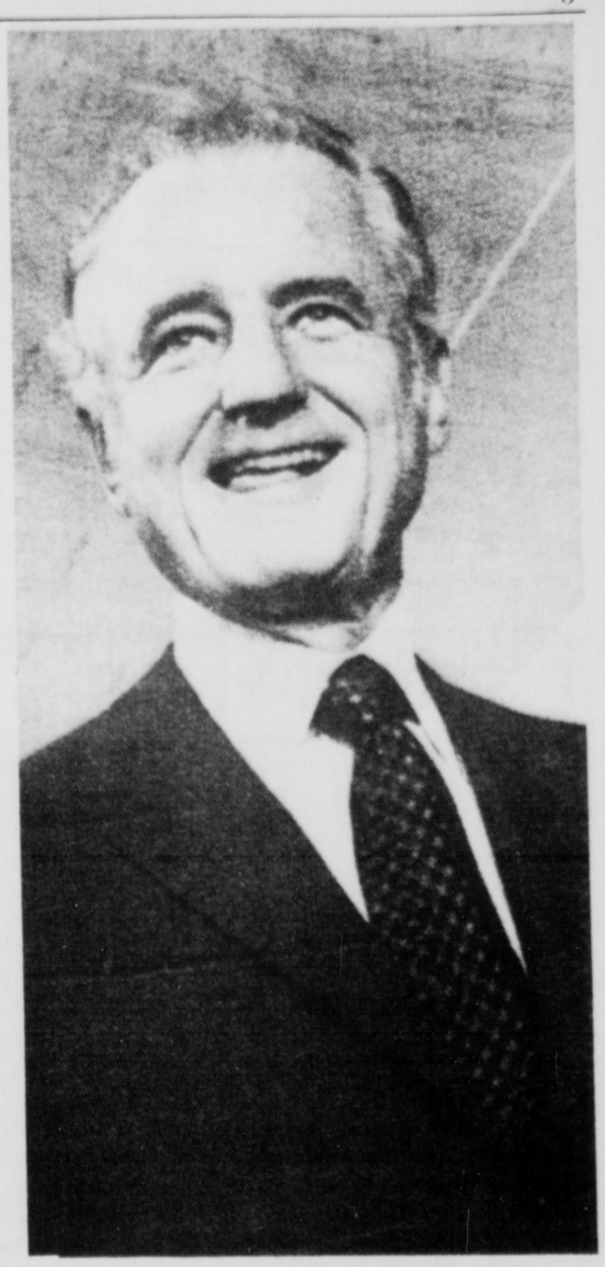

"The thing that irks me," Smathers told reporters, "is that the oral history that I gave was not supposed to be released until the 1980s."

— The CIA supplied Belgian priest Roger Vekemans with $5 million in secret funds in 1963 to help promote the presidential campaign of Eduardo Frei in Chile and support anti-Communist labor unions there, another priest, the Rev. James Vizzard, told UPI. He said Vekemans got the money after meeting with President Kennedy and the then CIA Director John McCone at the White House.

'LSD Less Powerful Than Caffeine'...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army experiments with LSD showed the drug is powerful but not addictive and it changes body cells less than caffeine, according to a top researcher involved in the program.

Dr. Van M. Sim said he personally had tried LSD.

He told a Pentagon news conference Wednesday only a few Army test subjects reported having after-effects from the hallucinogen.

The director of chemical warfare research at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., said LSD was administered to 585 volunteers, mostly soldiers but including some civilian Army personnel, over 12 years ending in 1967. The Army previously had said possibly 900 other persons were tested by outside contractors as part of the program.

Sim said Army test subjects were told beforehand they would receive a powerful, behavior-affecting drug. But they were not told when, nor were they told it would be LSD.

"They all knew afterward," he said.

He said the program was popular among volunteers, who received a three-day pass each week over three months as compensation. Before a volunteer was accepted, he had to take weeklong physical and psychological tests.

After taking LSD, subjects were given tests including map reading, spelling, breaking down and reassembling a rifle, and playing volleyball. Ten per cent underwent followup studies.

The study, Sim said, found LSD is a powerful drug that civilians might use for enjoyment. It also found "LSD is not physically addictive."

Despite doses as high as 2,400 micrograms per hundred pounds of body weight, only seven volunteers reported aftereffects, he said, because their selection was carefully controlled and "it was a lot different from the civilian drug culture."

Medical files were sent to their doctors but "we never heard from any one of them since.

"LSD in our test system did not affect individual cells, even given in magnificent quantities," Sim said. Caffeine contained greater cell damage as measured in "chromosome breaks."

Brig. Gen. Kenneth Dirks of the Army's medical research command said the investigation uncovered a drug, BromLysergic Acid, that could neutralize effects of LSD. A fullscale antidote was not found.

Nixon Tried to Stop Allende

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Nixon, in 1970, ordered the Central Intelligence Agency to try to prevent Salvador Allende from becoming President of Chile, leading to the agency's involvement in the planning of two military coups, the New York Times reported today.

The newspaper, quoting authoritative government sources, said the plans included proposals to kidnap Gen. Rene Schneider, chief of staff of the Chilean Army.

The sources said the CIA tried later to stop the kidnap plan, but that it was carried out nonetheless. Schneider was killed by Chilean military plotters in the kidnap attempt.

The newspaper said the second plot involved supplying insurgents with three machine guns and teargas grenades. The sources said, however, that plan was abandoned when it as decided the plot could not get broad political support.

They said the weapons were returned to the CIA unused.

The Times also said Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, then Nixon's assistant for national security affairs, was briefed about the kidnap plot on Oct. 13, 1970, by Thomas Karamessines, then chief of covert operations for the CIA.

After Karamessines outlined the plot to Kissinger and said it had little chance of success, the two agreed the plan should be stopped, the newspaper said.

The Times also said Kissinger has told President Ford of this plot.

According to the sources, the Times said, "agency officials felt Mr. Nixon's orders to block Mr. Allende, which were strongly worded, constituted a blanket authorization for their activities."

The newspaper quoted one source as saying Nixon was "extremely anxious" about Allende's rise to power in Chile, while another source said the former President was "frantic."

Voting Bill Survives

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill to extend and broaden the voting rights act has survived a strong bid by Southern senators — backed by President Ford — to substantially weaken its provisions.

But a proposed change in the length of the extension may jeopardize the bill's chances in the House.

The Senate voted 52-42 Wednesday to add an amendment by Sen. Robert Byrd, DW.Va., to extend the landmark 1965 act for another seven years instead of the 10 years passed by the House.

Faced with a scheduled Aug. 1 vacation, liberals had fought to keep the measure amendment-free in hopes of sending the bill directly to the White House before an Aug. 6 deadline, when key provisions in the present law will expire.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., who steered the measure through the House, told Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., the bill's floor manager, he would not accept a seven-year extension.

The Senate was continuing debate on the bill today. Southern senators were considering offering dozens of amendments which could further cloud its chances of final passage before the August recess.

Under the 1965 act, federal registrars, examiners and poll watchers have been sent into states and other areas which have denied blacks the right to register and vote.

The bill considerably broadens the act by expanding its protections to Spanish-speaking Americans and other minorities and providing bilingual election assistance to foreign language minorities.

In heated debate, southerners accused the bill's supporters of unfairly locking them under the act irrespective of how high the black voter turnout or registration was.

"Even a convicted murderer becomes eligible for parole," shouted Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga.

Title I Funds

By all means county officials and area business leaders are urged to go out and get whatever federal funds may now be available from the Economic Development Administration. As a weapon in helping combat the local high unemployment rate and slightly anemic industrial climate, this U.S. government program must rate high on our priority lists. Title I was specifically created to spur a depressed areas economic growth providing funding for such eligible projects as industrial park development, water and sewer facilities, water pollution control systems and some highway development. Since the unemployment rate in the county is approaching the 12 percent mark any assistance of this kind is extremely necessary.

Title I funds had been first offered to Ulster back in 1972 but a 50 percent matching rate had been set by the feds, and at that time our local lawmakers felt this was too high a price tag for the county to meet. But because of our current high unemployment rate, which places Ulster in the depressed area classification, it is believed that only 20 percent in matching funds would currently be necessary. At present, Ulster's period of eligibility has expired, but according to the county's Intergovernmental Coordinator Robert Randall the reapplication process should not be too difficult. Rotron, Inc. is one of our leading local industries pushing hard for this project, with strong assists from Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. and Mayor Francis Koenig. We hope their efforts are capped with success and soon.

Military Pay

We are attempting for the first time in our history to maintain a massive defense establishment in peacetime without a system of compulsory military service. So far, the all-volunteer experiment seems to be a success.

But its chances for success in the future would be improved if the military pay system were reformed, simplified and brought up to date.

That is made clear in a recent study published by the Brookings Institution, an independent government research institute in Washington.

The study suggests the military pay system is a muddle, full of costly anachronisms, geared to the needs of an earlier era when military pay was unduly low. If it were reformed, our all-volunteer forces could either be upgraded in personnel quality or the current level of defense spending for personnel could be reduced.

Personnel costs have become a major item of defense spending as a result of the all-volunteer experiment. They have made it harder for the Defense Department to get money for research and development and production of new weapons. So reform of military pay is more important than ever for the future of national security.

Military men are now paid according to their needs instead of their services — unequal pay for equal work. A married sergeant receives compensation of $10,063 a year in cash, quarters and subsistence allowances, dependent health care and commissary benefits, compared to $8,778 a year for an unmarried sergeant. The benefits attract married men. Only 7 percent of Army recruits were married in 1955 as against 22 percent in 1974. The increase in the number of dependents increases defense costs.

The hodgepodge of military pay, allowances and tax benefits could be converted to a single salary system that would be easier for everyone to understand. If this were done, and single personnel were paid as much as those with dependents, an Army recruit's pay would go up from $344 plus food and lodging under the present system to $570 a month. That would make it easier to compare civilian and military job opportunities. It would make it easier to attract highly qualified volunteers and retain them in the service.

In fiscal 1975, base pay accounted for only $15 billion of total military personnel costs of about $37 billion.

Realignment of the military pay structure to align it more closely with civilian employment and the needs of an all-volunteer defense establishment should be given consideration in Congress.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

The Clown of the Freshman Class

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — First-term Rep. Larry McDonald, D.-Ga., a military-minded member of the John Birch Society's national council, is rapidly earning the title of Freshman Class Clown.

The arch-conservative urologist has tilted with dozens of windmills and resorted to tactics from the days of Sen. Joseph McCarthy, D.-Wis., to smear liberals as Communists.

He is even at war with his ex-wife who accused him of refusing to make love to her while they were married because, he told her, "people do not make love in wartime."

During his first half-year in office, the Marietta madcap has bewildered his colleagues by inserting an astonishing 140 speeches in the Congressional Record. Not one of them was delivered on the House floor.

McDonald's ramblings include such classics as "Save our Santas from Government." So far, the taxpayers have been stuck with $40,000 in printing charges despite the fact that McDonald was elected on a platform of combatting government waste.

The Georgian's Record inserts would probably be grounds for court suits if he did not hide behind his congressional immunity. He often reprints long membership lists of political organizations and then claims the members are Communists.

One of his targets has been capable ex-Rep. Charles Porter, D.-Ore., who took umbrage at being smeared as a Communist and invited McDonald to come "our from behind the shield of immunity."

Porter wanted to sue McDonald so "the judicial system (can) determine which of us is a brazen liar." McDonald responded by reprinting Porter's challenge in the Record and renewing his scurrilous, but safe, attack on the former lawmaker.

McDonald's tactics may stem from his current court problems. He is appealing a 1974 contempt citation based on his 1971 divorce case.

His former wife charged McDonald with having extramarital affairs and refusing sexual relations with her. "We're at war," the former wife quoted her bellicose spouse as saying, "and people do not make love in wartime."

Conjugal battle alone, however, does not dominate McDonald's thinking. At a secret meeting of the House Armed Services Committee, some colleagues nervously snickered at his demand that tactical nuclear weapons be used to "liberate South Vietnam from the Communists."

But McDonald's zealous concerns do not extend to the management of his own affairs, as an examination of his campaign filings shows. We found numerous contributors were still improperly identified, although the House clerk told McDonald's campaign committee about the transgressions last December.

The financial portions of McDonald's campaign report are also suspect. Federal laws limit spending on media advertisements to $50,000 in the primary and $50,000 in the general election.

But McDonald's campaign committee apparently slipped as much as $2,000 worth of primary expenses into the general election accounting. This kept the primary total below the legal limit of $50,000.

Footnote: Two of our reporters made repeated efforts to reach McDonald, even attempting to call him from the House floor. McDonald, so far, has refused comment.

STAMP COLLECTION: The Agriculture Department is looking into charges that politicians in Puerto Rico have "ripped off" wholesale batches of food stamps while deserving families are virtually starving. We have learned the probe may end with criminal indictments.

The $600 million food stamp project was created less than a year ago and 71 per cent of the island's population is eligible. However, pathetic letters reaching us say that "the staff in charge of the food stamps program are from the (Popular and Ind ependent) parties . . . Only the rich of the party or those connected with it have access" to the stamps.

Another letter tells of a 79-year-old man crippled by arthritis whose $98.80 in Social Security goes mainly for a nurse-housekeeper and medicine, but who has been put off seven times by food stamp officials.

Other letters tell of well-to-do families who list as dependents their grown children. They, in turn, claim their own children as dependents to get still more food stamps. The stamps, of course, are valuable and in some instances have actually been used as "currency."

Footnote: An Agriculture spokesman confirmed a probe had been going on since March. "It takes time to get started," he said.

OILY BUSINESS: An oil lobbyist has used the stationery of the nonpolitical American Society for Testing and Materials to lobby against a bill requiring gas octanes to be posted at the pumps.

Ray Wright, refining director of the oil-sponsored American Petroleum Institute, is also secretary of the prestigious testing society and is supposed to wear only one of his hats at a time.

Instead, he urged members of the society, on its own letterhead, to lobby against the bill which, could save motorists $3 million and keep tons of lead out of the atmosphere.

Through the looking glass

On the Right

Revolving Around the Buckley Axis

By William F. Buckley

A couple of weeks ago, executives of the AFL-CIO were ruffled by a special request from their guest of honor. Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn desired that the labor union leaders should invite, to his big speech in New York City, Senator James L. Buckley. Having no alternative, they did so, even while leaking it to the press that they resented his presence because the senator was not a "friend of labor." That happens, by the way, to be incorrect: the sainted junior senator from New York is not a friend of excessive labor union power; which makes him a friend of labor, not an enemy. Anyway, just to make matters worse, the moment the great Solzhenitsyn spotted Senator Buckley, he came down from the dais and shook him warmly by the hand, while cameras, and eyes, popped.

Question: Is so warm an endorsement by Solzhenitsyn politically advantageous — or disadvantageous? Is it only a nostalgic flashbulb briefly illuminating the anti-Communist hang-up of the Old Right? There is an eccentric theorist writing orotund stuff about major trends in American politics. His name is Kevin Phillips. A few years ago he wrote a book called The Emerging Republican Majority, which was a most fascinating volume, suffering only from the massive inaccuracy of its predictions.

In those days, Theorist Phillips was saying that the Republican Party had it all sewn up for the next generation. Since the Republican debacle of 1974, he has found it necessary to defend his thesis by saying, in effect, that it was only the terminology that was wrong, not the predictions. Accordingly, he has come up with a convenient fiction by which he distinguishes between the decadent Old Right, and the robust New Right. The Old Right, he says, orbits about "the Buckley brothers' axis," and emphasizes free market economics, a strong military establishment, and cultural elitism.

Concerning this last point, I pause to smile over a parenthetical offensive undertaking by Mr. Phillips in the current issue of TV Guide, where he complains (which is okay by me) about government subsidies to public television. "Most of it (i.e., Public Television) is Liberal in tone," he writes, "but there are a couple of 'conservatives'" — his quotation marks — "on tap, people who share Establishment cultural chic. Only a few weeks ago, one of them, Wm. F. Buckley Jr., announced that he was loading his yacht with vintage wines for a transatlantic voyage, which makes him just right for PTV."

Stuff like that is catnip to ambulance-chasing shrinks, who must wonder at the bizarre identification between sailing across the Atlantic and the cultural establishment. Perhaps in Phillips' pri vate history books Christopher Columbus was the father of liberalism, and Samuel Eliot Morison is its prophet. But enough on the point — except to warn those who might be misled on the subject that one should never take vintage wines on a small sailboat. No matter how steady its stomach, this kind of pitching and tossing, a wintage wine will not take.

"In contrast to the Old Right," Phillips recently explained in a column, "the New Right, while favorable to a strong military posture and suspicious of government regulations (like the Old Right) puts its principal emphasis on domestic social issues — on public anger over 1) busing, 2) welfare spending, 3) environmental extremism, 4) soft criminology (4a) the misuse of words?), 5) media bias and power, 6) warped education, 7) twisted textbooks, 8) racial quotas, 9) various guidelines and an ever-expanding bureaucracy." One member of the Buckley axis wrote a book about twisted textbooks and warped education 25 years ago, and "soft criminology" a year and a half ago. . . . So what else is new?

What is new is that some of the boys are seeking means of co-opting George Wallace into the conservative movement. I do not automatically reject the effort for the simple reason that it is the people who voted for Wallace that are needed — and only George Wallace can deliver them. What is excluded is a concession to George Wallace of a philosophically disreputable kind: on the issue, for instance, of metaphysical human equality.

Poor Phillips, he flounders about in a circle-squaring futility. If we give in to the worst demands of Wallace Populism, we have earned ourselves exactly nothing, save possibly a constitutional amendment to prevent busing. That we should be able to get anyway, and we'd probably get it a lot faster if the New Right, to the extent it is successfully identified with George Wallace, is not seen to be the principal advocate of it.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

A Belly Full of Politics

WASHINGTON—"Under the present conditions in Washington and conditions which have existed ever since I came to Congress, it is almost impossible to obtain effective legislation in the interest of the people," said Sen. George Norris, the heroic Nebraskan Progressive in 1923. "I have been bucking this game for 20 years and there is no way of beating it. I have done all I could. Now I am through."

Sen. Norris changed his mind and stayed in office long enough to taste new disappointments. The same temptation to chuck it, however, still works on some members of Congress. Not all of them are polyphloisboian hypocrites who'd kill the family dog and eat it for stew if that would return them to office.

The other day, William Hungate, the Democratic Congressman from Missouri, called it a career. "I have gradually become aware that my enthusiasm for public service has been waning under the weight of my rustrated hopes, others' unreasonable pressures, and the job's persistent demands. . . Where once criticism fell without impact, it now lands heavily. Where once exorbitant demands aroused little feeling, they now provoke annoyance. I have found that since I entered office the duties have increased dramatically, exceeded only by public dissatisfaction with the Congress," he said in his formal statement. Informally he remarked, "If I go on My Goodness! I'm going to wilt like an ice cream soda."

The melting of Congressional popsicles doesn't represent another one of those suddenly discovered trends we newsies get off on. "The extraordinary high number of resignations from the early Congress alone suggest the degree of the politicians' dissatisfaction with the public life in the capital," writes James Sterling Young ("The Washington Community: 1800-1828," Harcourt, Brace & World, 1966). "From 1797 to 1829 more Senators resigned than failed be to reelected. . . On the average 17.9 percent of the Senate resigned every two years, almost six times the biennial turnover in the modern Senate due to resignations. Among Representatives, an average of 5.8 percent resigned in each Congress, about twice the percentage of resignations in the modern House."

The reasons for chucking it, bagging it and otherwise cashing it in during the first years of the Republic were much the same as some given now. John Quincy Adams called the capital a "sink of corruption," a place of "a thousand corrupt cabals." Young quotes another politician of the period as saying, "I look around—and exclaim where is there one man I can trust! and I feel there is not one!" With less passion, Mr. Hungate says, "Politics is a place where there are many friendly people but few friends."

The guinea hens of the media, lined up 11 in a row, declare that people are quitting because the general, Watergate-fostered, opinion of politicians is so low. Piffle. The general opinion of politicians has always been low.

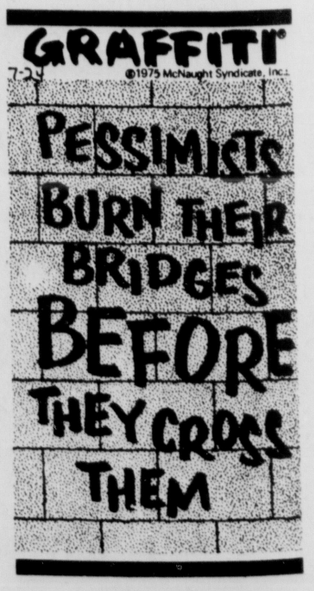

The belief that politicians are parasites, cowards, sellouts and thieves is an American cultural trait. We worship our Presidents, but only after we have despised them in their prior role of office seeker, itself a term of contempt in American English. We're great patriots, yes we are, a vast host of screaming red, white and blue eagles, but what American doesn't revile his government whenever he gets a beer in his hand?

We're sentimental anarchists who venerate our Revolution and hate the government which issued from it. And we'll vote for any blowhard who convinces us he isn't a "professional politician." We love our mythical amateur political heroes so deeply a crook can gull us into backing any new scheme for public peculation simply by telling us it is "nonpartisan" or "above politics."

Once in a while a Congressman who wants to stay and take this guff gets the boot from his colleagues. The treatment is reserved for blacks, reds and the absentmindedly noble. Presently it seems to be happenig to Rep. Michael Harrington (D., Mass.) who made the mistake of blabbing about the CIA's role in restoring Chile to the family of capitalist democracies. Chit-chatting about what may have been the world's worst kept secret is a technical violation of the House's rules, so there is a move underway to expel the garrulous Mr. Harrington.

The other night a group of Mr. Harrington's hapless friends gathered to do him honor before his enemies do him in. Ralph Nader spoke and remarked that in this case, "Instead of the rule of law, you have the law of rule. . . Those who censured Michael Harrington in effect said thou shalt not report a crime." But then Nader deviated from the tradition of blaming politicians exclusively and talked about the body politic which he described as having moved from the delegation of its responsibilities to itself to abdication of them to "the final stage of vegetation which is a man watching Johnny Carson over the rim of his belly."

Ralph Nader, who ought to be President of the United States, may be able to climb to the top of the rim of the belly. Lesser ones tire or get kicked out, and should the latter happen to Mr. Harrington, it is in keeping with our usages to say that Congress' censure is easier to bear than its praise.

Shouts of Glee Are Heard On Hurley Mountain

HURLEY

Shouts of glee ring out from Hurley Mountain top these fine summer days in contrast to splashes, sizzles and an occasional crack of a bat. The sounds are emanating from Camp Jay Cee Cee, the Kingston Jewish Community Center Day Camp now in its 17th year at the present site.

The splashes are from the 80 by 300-foot pool where fun swims and instruction are daily fare under the direction of Laurie Perkins and Andrew Braunstein, fully qualified water safety instructors.

The sizzles are from the outdoor grill where campers enjoy cook out menus on Wednesdays and on Tuesday night "over-nights".

The camp began its 23rd season this year under the direction of Ron Cole. Gail Pinot heads the arts and crafts department and Cindy Lowe is the recreation specialist. Joe Cavano is in charge of the nature department.

Ninety youngsters wee were enrolled in the first two-week period. Two new programs have been developed, one for 20 teenage campers and a pre-nursery school group involving five campers.

The recreation program features volleyball, archery, paddleball, softball and golf instruction.

Camp swim awards were as follows: Pre Red Cross frog badge, Suzanne Lahl; Red Cross awards: advanced beginner, Timu Friedman, Laurie Hirsch, Elena Kakoullis, Nicole Liebman, Tracy Palladino, Deena Parnis, Barbara Steiner, Sarah Carey, David Farber, Shari Kronick, Brad Mehl, Rebecca Pinto, and Andrew Schlossberg.

THOMAS NYQUIST

Dem Candidate Questions Claim

NEW PALTZ

Thomas Nyquist, Democratic candidate for the Ulster County Legislature from Dist. 8 (New Paltz, Gardiner, Shawangunk), today questioned Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago's (R-Dist. 8) claim of tax savings for Ulster County.

"Savago emphasizes that taxes have been lowered five times in the past seven years," Nyquist said. "However, he fails to mention that it was a Republican majority which implemented the sales tax some years ago — a tax which hits those on limited incomes the hardest. This is the same old policy of trying to confuse the public with half truths," he said.

Nyquist, 44, a resident of Savago's Dist. in New Paltz, has served as both a member of the Ulster County Planning Board and the New Paltz Village Board, serving as chairman for two years. He is a political scientist and researcher who recently spent six months doing political research in South Africa.

Nyquist noted that "Savago speaks of the inability to get more industry in Ulster County, saying there is not a great deal that county government can do. This is a defeatest attitude at a time when unemployment is at a 35-year high," he said.

"He also speaks of the 'substantial chance' of the Republicans gaining seats in the county legislature. My own discussions with Republicans, Democrats, Conservatives and Liberals alike indicate a real dissatisfaction with the high-handed way in which the county is being run. Doesn't he realize that people both inside and outside the legislature are deeply distrubed by such issues as the mess within the county highway department?" he asked.

Benefit Claims Rise

KINGSTON

For the sixth straight week, unemployment benefits continued to be claimed by more and more Ulster County residents, according to the New York State Department of Labor.

The week of July 11, 6,105 persons claimed the benefits compared with 5,941 the week before. At the end of May only 4,997 residents sought the unemployment insurance.

The increase is also shown in statewide figures with 795,077 making claims the week of July 11 compared with 698,940 a week earlier.

State Labor Commissioner Louis L. Levine points out that the unemployment statistics are not comparable with total unemployment.

The Latest Endangered Species Could Be the Hot Dog Vender

ENFORCEMENT OR HARASSMENT?

NEW YORK (UPI) — "I have the sales tax," said Vassilli Mastorias, selling hot dogs beneath a blue and yellow umbrella over his sidewalk cart. "I pay the income tax. I have the license. They don't bother me."

Vassilli may be the exception.

Hotdog vendors' union chief Morris Horn said Monday police were harassing his members — issuing 20 summonses a day to some.

Horn, of the Frankfurter Vendors Union, called the crackdown "Moscow tactics." He said "high hat" merchants were behind a campaign that brought thousands of summonses in the past two weeks.

"They're treating our people like a bunch of criminals," Horn said. "They've been handcuffed. They've been put in a paddy wagon. They've been jailed."

The Fifth Avenue Association, which represents a number of plush midtown shops, takes credit for the crackdown.

"It's true," said Michael Grosso, the association's executive vice president. But he said they want to be rid of "all street hawkers," not just hotdog sellers.

"If it were just one little pushcart, we would say nothing," Grosso said. "But I counted eight in three blocks the other day. The umbrella peddlers, the ones with cheap jewelry and all the different food hawkers — they are littering."

He said shopowners just want the city to "help us maintain the high quality of the central business district."

"Our merchants are not going to stand for paying $5,000 per front foot, some of them, and then have these peddlers set up blocking their entrances and show windows."

Sidney Baumgarden, assistant to the mayor, also said the crackdown was not aimed just at hotdog vendors.

"There are 13,000 street vendors, only 2,500 of them licensed, and we've been getting complaints — not just from the merchants, but the police," he said. "They say they are impeding traffic by blocking intersections and creating congestion on sidewalks."

The crackdown came after initial attempts to restrict hawking to licensed vendors failed. He said nonlicensed peddlers "became unresponsive."

"We fed 15 names through the computer and came up with 24,000 summonses," he said. "They ranged from several hundred to several thousand a name."

The result was six arrests and the issuing of many new summonses.

But to Horn the whole matter is more hhan just a ticketwriting campaign.

"The driving out of the frankfurter vendors means the wiping out of the city's great tradition," he said.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

New Ways and New Prices, So New Gold From Old Mine

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo. (UPI) — The El Paso mine once was the 10th largest producer in the fabled Cripple Creek-Victor gold fields. Now it is going back in business, thanks to new technology and sharply increased gold prices.

Dale Weaver and a group of investors took a look at what they are paying for gold today and figured the time had come to restart the El Paso mine.

Weaver, a former theology student and importer-exporter, assembled about 50 stockholders this year to buy the defunct pit.

The new company, El Paso Gold Mines, Inc., will not bring new ore up from underground — at least not yet. Instead, the firm will use a rebuilt mill to process an estimated 275,000 tons of gold-bearing rock left in piles by earlier miners.

"They dumped the rock because the gold in it was of too low a grade to extract economically," Weaver said. "Now, with the gold prices about five times what they were, we feel it will be worth our while to process the ore and remove the gold.

"You might say we're involved in a gold-recycling process."

Weaver said the mill, which began operations in January, will be able to process 50 tons of ore per day when it is in full production in several months.

"We expect to get about 10 ounces of gold from each 50 tons of ore," said Weaver. "Our processing costs will run about $9 per ton, or $450 a day.

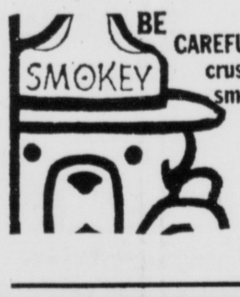

"At current prices of $165 per ounce, that will leave us $1,200 per day, from which we will have to subtract the refining costs. We hope to come out about $1,000 a day in the black."

The mill will produce a gold-rich sludge which will be shipped to the American Smelting Company in El Paso, Tex., for refining. The sludge, or concentrate, will contain "about 95 percent of the gold in the original ore with about one-fortieth of the original bulk," said Weaver.

American Smelting will pay Weaver and his associates 92½ percent of the refined gold's value, based on an average gold price of the previous month. The Texas company will keep the remainder for its refining and processing costs.

Weaver and his investors will use the initial profit from the recycling process to expand underground operations. That phase, expected to begin in two or three years, will produce "an ore much richer than the dump ore," he said.

Other plans, which Weaver saif hinged on the price of gold and the success of current operations, include construction of a mill five to seven times the size of the present one. Weaver said the mill's current work force of five could increase to 24 if underground mining were successful.

'Catskill Waters' . . . Coalition Is Formed

ROSCOE

Months of deliberation between the Department of Environmental Conservation, the State Attorney General, and concerned citizens of the Catskill area culminated recently in the formation of Catskill Waters, a coalition of organizations and individuals dedicated to proper management of water resources in the Catskill region.

In a meeting at Antrim Lodge in Roscoe, officers for 1975-76 were elected, including: John N. Hoeko, president; Frank Mele, vice president; Ed Ostapczuk, secretary-treasurer; and Phil Chase, Art Flick, Alan Fried, and Phil Neish, directors. Ward Herman was named chairman of the publicity committee.

Presently, Catskill Waters is meeting with the Attorney General's office and DEC to provide input for use in negotiations with the City of New York regarding management of city-owned reservoirs.

"Our highest priority is to obtain equitable downstream releases to sustain a cold water fishery in the Delaware system," Hoeko said. "We will support DEC and the Attorney General's office in negotiations with the city as long as they remain fruitful. With the ever-decreasing flow of the Delaware and with Tocks Island Reservoir looming in the background, time is critically important."

The new organization will hold its next meeting Aug. 12 at the Antrim Lodge, Roscoe, beginning at 7 p.m. Dr. Theodore L. Hullar, DEC deputy commissioner for programs and research, will be guest speaker. The public is invited.

LIFE TODAY

Planned for the SUNY campus are various Red Carpet Events.

A full-dress pageant in New Paltz on Aug. 2 will re-enact the signing of the treaty 300 years ago that transferred the New Paltz lands from five Esopus Indian Chiefs to the Huguenot settlers. Members of the Association of Native Americans, dressed in the costumes of their ancestors, will participate in the pageant which, in addition to the treaty signing ceremony, will include Indian dances of the Hudson Valley as they were performed in the late 1660's.

Red Carpet Week at Historic Paltz

By Tobie Geertsema

NEW PALTZ

As towns all across America become increasingly involved in celebrating the 200th birthday of the United States with Bicentennial fervor, New Paltz can offer more than most. Two hundred years of history is only two-thirds of the pudding to Paltz, where — 300 years ago — native American chiefs and white colonists signed a treaty transferring the New Paltz lands from the five Esopus Indian Chiefs to the Huguenots.

The price was stiff for the times, with the settlers paying a hundred times as mch for their acreage along the banks of the Wallkill River as Peter Minuit had paid for all of Manhattan five decades before.

The items accepted in payment: 40 kettles, 40 axes, 40 adzes, 40 shirts, 40 oars, 40 pieces "duffel" cloth, 60 pairs stockings, 60 blankets, 100 needles, 100 knives, 100 bars of lead, 300 fathoms white network, 1 keg powder, 1 measure tobacco, 1 stallion, 1 mare, 4 kegs wine. Their value: between $2,000-$2500.

Stiff as it was, Paltz has proved worth the price. Today, in Huguenot Street — the site of the old stone houses — it can lay claim to the "oldest street in America with its original houses." And in its mushrooming, rapidly growing, four-year college, it has one of the finest educational centers in New York's state university system.

And both the Street of the Huguenots and the State University College — along with innumerable local organizations, businesses, individuals — will be joining to make Red Carpet Week for 1975 in New Paltz an entertainingly historic event of major proportions.

Eight eventful days make up Red Carpet Week this summer, Sunday, July 27 to Sunday, Aug. 2. An indoor-outdoor festival, appealing to any and all tastes, it will pu heavy emphasis on sports, theater, music, and arts and crafts demonstrations.

There will be so much to do and so much to see that the sponsoring Chamber of Commerce is hard-pressed to pinpoint the individual highlights. But, certainly, the full-dress pageant, re-enacting the signing of that treaty 300 years ago — on Stone House Day, Saturday, Aug. 3-2, will be a major event. The Stone House Day pageant will be coupled with dances from Hudson Valley settlement days, craf demonstrations, folk dancing, and guided tours of Huguenot Street's old houses and its historical musuem.

Sporting events dominate opening day of the gala week of festivities Sunday, July 27 with day-long trophy-skeet shoots and Huguenot Street tours; an 11 a.m. eight-mile cross-country race, 12 noon starting time bike rides of 10 and 26 miles; a 1 p.m. orienteering adventure, the great new outdoor sport involving a race through the woods to find Check points against the clock. Beginning day activities end at 8 p.m. with a silent film festival on the university campus.

Main events Monday, July 28 are a day-long book sale on the Elting Memorial Library grounds; an 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. demonstration cycle every hour on the hour of cooking and needlecraft techniques at Runcible Spoon and Yarn Barn; a noon to 3 p.m. card party with luncheon at St. Andrew's. Tuesday, July 29 brings a 11 p.m. lawn concert by the Middle School Band to Main Street; three afternoon performances (1, 2 and 3:30 p.m.) for young and old alike of "Mime Originals" by the Storybook Theater at the Elting Library; a 7:30 p.m. variety show at SUNY's main auditorium in which the talents of communiy and college will join.

A Crafts Fair and Art Show take over North Chestnut and Academy Streets for the day on Wednesday, July 30, a mid-point day through Red Carpet Week that will also see an outdoor cafe operating day-long at the Methodist Church; a day-long Quilt Show display and demonstration at The Gallery on Academy Street; a demonstration by live birds of prey at 11 a.m. at the Middle School football field; and, again, those not-to-be-missed tours of old houses on the Street of the Huguenots.

Thursday, July 31 will see both Lake Mohonk and Lake Minnewaska weloming browsers, strollers and diners to these famous resorts with their formal gardens, beautiful lakes and recreational facilities. Gates at Mohonk open after 9 a.m.; at 10 a.m. at Minnewaska. A day-long golf tournament with trophy awards for men, women and juniors is one of Thursday's offerings at Huguenot Manor Country Club, as is a blacksmithing demonstration at the Palkowics forge on Route 32 North from 1-3 p.m.

With the lengthiest schedule of any of the eight days, Thursday also offers, again, day-long Huguenot Street tours; a 2 p.m. children's theater performance by the 90 Miles Off Broadway troupe of "The Emperor's New Clothes" on the Campus School field; a re-creation of an early 19th century circus with clowns, acrobats, brass band, animal acts and side show at 7:30 p.m.; and an 8:30 p.m. performance by the college's Summer Repertory Theater of "The Play's the Thing" at Parker Theater.

Friday, Aug. 1 is tour day, offering tours of the Little Wings Bird Sanctuary on Jenkinstown Crossroad; hourly tours at 11 a.m., 12 noon and 1 p.m. of Badami Farms on Plains Road for city people who dream longingly of green meadows and grazing cows; tours of Huguenot Street's old houses; and a nature walk at Mohonk, leaving the gateway there at 1 p.m. Climaxing tour day will be a trio of evening attractions, including an auction of antiques and other items at the Reformed Church Parking lot, that 19th century circus recreation again, and the Summer Repertory Theater troupe in "A George Gershwin Musical Revue," on the Parker Stage.

Red Carpet Week comes to a festive end Sunday, Aug. 3 with an early morning to early afternoon Pancake Breakfast, a day-long Antique Show and Flea Market at Simmons Plaza, a Tennis Tournament at the Paltz Tennis Club with competition in men's and women's singles, and a final chance to tour the Street of the Huguenots.

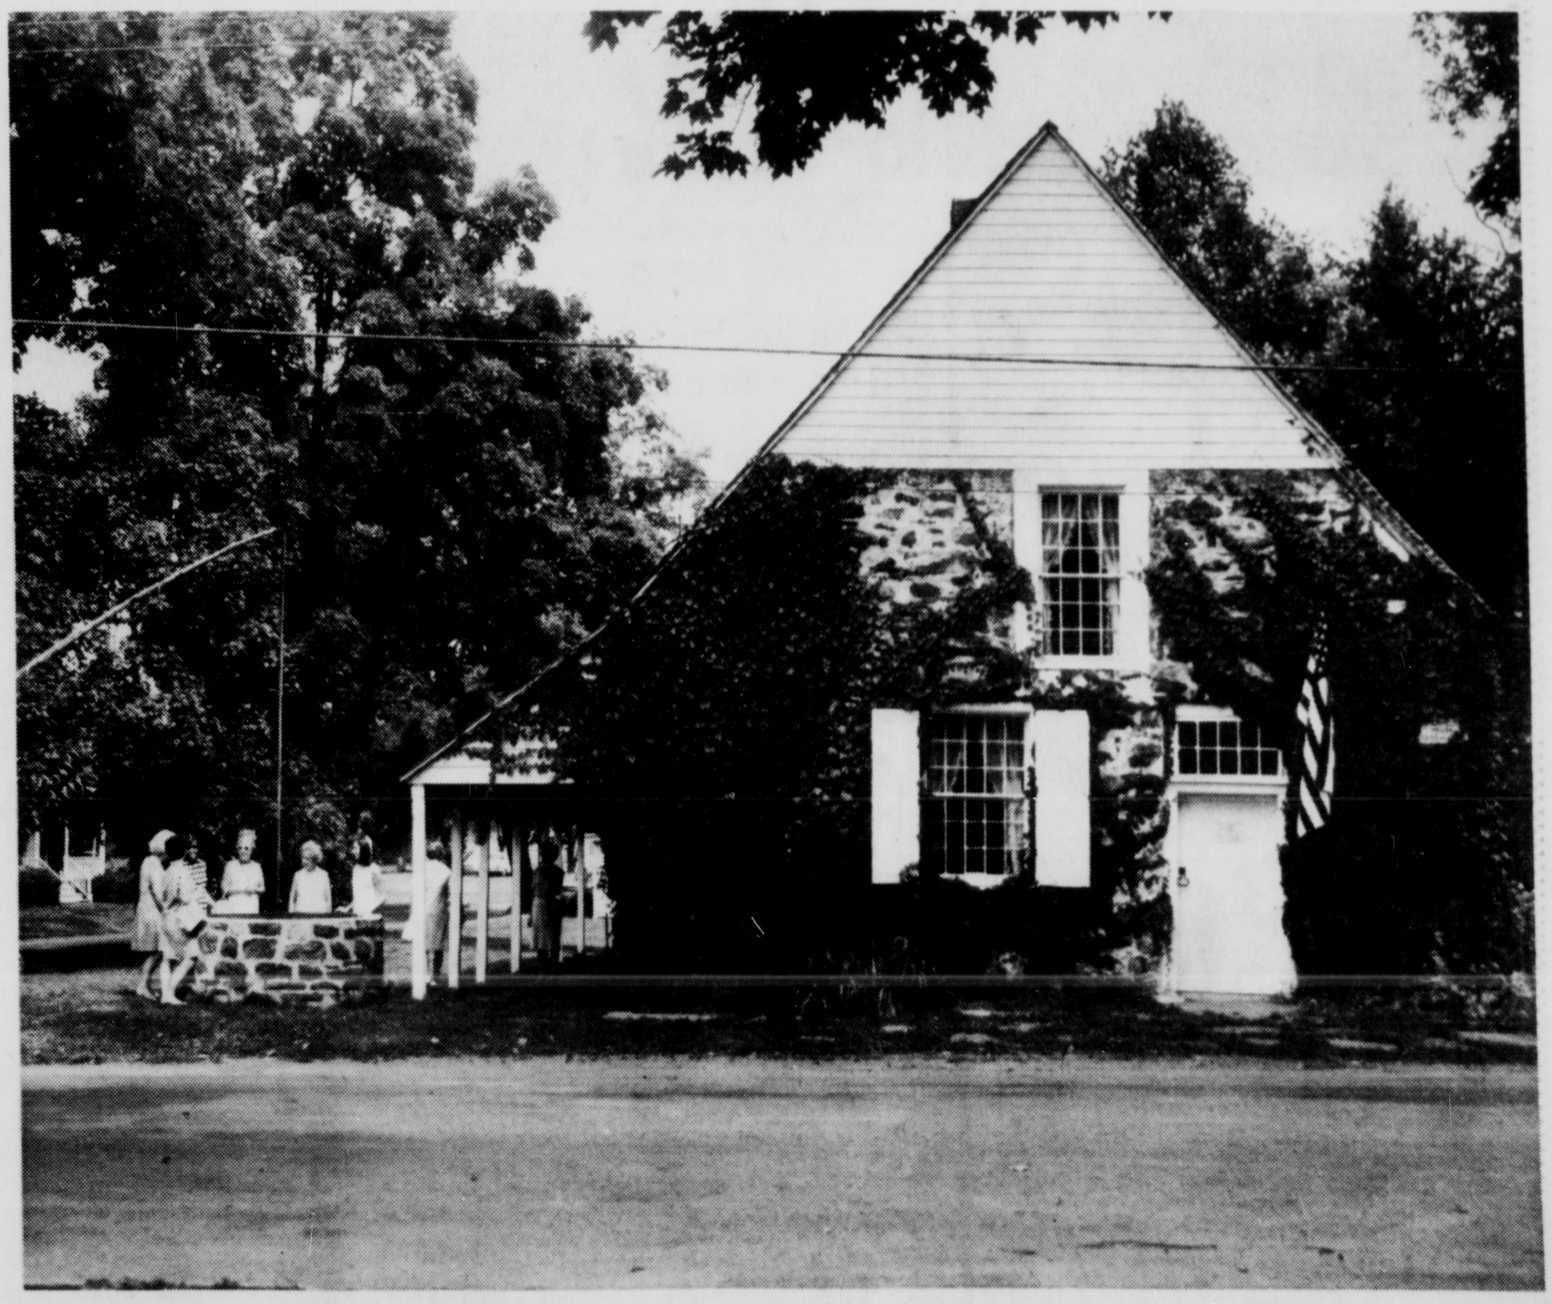

Thousands will be attracted to New Paltz on any day of all eight days of Red Carpet Week. For an hour-by-hour, day-by-day schedule, visitors should obtain a brochure from the Chamber of Commerce information booth at Thruway Exit 18 next to the 3 Penny Inn on Rt. 299. Information is also available there on unscheduled activities not listed in this article. And when the red carpet has been rolled out and rolled up, many will have enjoyed themselves to the hilt on the oldest street in America and in many another location in historic New Paltz.

Barbara Nessim at WWC Tonight

Feminist artist Barbara Nessim, who has exhibited over the past 12 years at many major New York galleries, will discuss "Self-sufficiency in art" at the Woodstock Women's Center, 59A Tinker Street, Woodstock, this evening at 8:30. Ms. Nessim, who studied graphics and fine art at Pratt Institute, has taught at the School of Visual Arts in New York since 1967 and has been a guest lecturer at many leading American art schools, including the Rhode Island School of Design, Pratt Institute, the American Institute of Graphic Arts, the Dayton Art Institute, and New York University. She has exhibited in group and one-woman shows since 1963, including the internationally acclaimed "Push Pin Graphic Exhibit" of 1970 and two major shows of erotic art by women at the Erotic Art Gallery in New York. Most recently, she participated in a group show titled "Interpretations of Sexuality" at the Albin-Zeglen Gallery, and had a one-woman show of recent paintings at the Benson Gallery in Bridgehampton, Long Island. In addition to her work as a fine artist, Ms. Nessim has been a clothing designer for Lady Van Heusen, a shoe designer, and an illustrator whose work has appeared in many major periodicals, including New York Magazine, the New York Times Magazine section, Esquire, and Playboy. She illustrated feminist Ti-Grace Atkinson's book Amazon Odyssey and Gloria Steinem's The Beach Book, and has received the Award of Excellence given by the Society of Illustrators every year since 1967. Her work hangs in a number of private collections, including those of Westinghouse, Inc., artist Ivan Chermayoff, and actresses Ali MacGraw and Rita Moreno. All women are welcome.

On Friday at 9 p.m., Elana Nachman, author of the recent novel Riverfinger Women, will read selections from her poetry and prose at the Women's Center Friday night coffeehouse. All women are welcome.

The current exhibit of drawings, prints, and collages by the Women's Studio Collective of Rosendale has been held over for an additional weekend at the Women's Center. It will again be open to the public on Saturday, July 26 and Sunday, July 27 from 2 to 6 p.m., and to women during all scheduled events through Thursday, July 31.

Concord String Quartet Sunday at Maverick

The Concord String Quartet will perform Sunday, July 27 at 3 p.m. at the Maverick Concert Hall in Woodstock to mark the halfway mark of the 60th season.

It will be the first appearance here of this young group who have earned national and international kudos since entering upon the American musical scene in 1972.

Their history, since then, and the expanding breadth of their repertoire, has been told in countless rave reviews in major cities.

Members of the Concord String Quartet are artists-in-residence at Dartmouth College, Hanover, N.Y. Mark Sokol, first violin; Andrew Jennings, second violin; and John Kochanowski, viola, all studied at one time at the Juilliard School in New York. Norman Fischer, cello, is the lone graduate of Oberlin in this group.

Cultural Events Noted

The Art Students League announces that there will be no Noon Forum on Friday, July 25. The Forums, under the direction of Franklin Alexander, will resume on Friday, August 1, with Barbara Neustadt, printmaker, as the guest speaker. The public is invited to attend the noon hour discussion at no cost.

An exhibition of work by artist residents of Woodstock who have studied at the League is currently on view in the League Gallery, and will continue through August 31. Following this show will be an exhibition by students who are presently attending the Art Students League.

The League Office and Gallery, Woodstock, are open from 9 to 1, weekdays.

The "Now and Then" show, presented by Woodstock Artists Association, will open Saturday and continue until August 6. Opening party is slated from 4 to 6 p.m.

In this "Now and Then" show, or "How Artists Change," artists will submit one early and one recent work. The three artist jury, which is anonymous, will present the Anna Nemzer Award to the best in show.

Public is invited.

Flashing Alarm Awakens the Deaf

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Do you have any suggestions on how a deaf person can wake himself up each morning?

This is very important to me because I would like to have my own apartment and live by myself if I can solve this problem.

Thanks for any help you can give me.

R.

DEAR R.: I contacted the Society for the Hard of Hearing, and they suggested an alarm clock with a flashing light. They are sold for around $15 at SHH offices.

I was told that these are very popular because deaf people are highly sensitive to light.

DEAR ABBY: After 30 years of marriage, my husband and I are no longer in love. We have not shared the same bed for the last 10.

I know that for five years he has been in love with another woman who would marry him if he were free, but he is staying with me out of a sense of duty.

We are both miserable this way, but I still need him for security since I have never worked and couldn't support myself. Also, I am used to his company and am afraid to start a new life for myself at my age (51). I don't know which way to turn. Can you advise me?

LOST IN L.A.

DEAR LOST: First, just because you've never worked doesn't mean you can't. Hanging on to a man who keeps an in-name-only marriage intact out of a sense of duty is unfair to him.

Why not talk it over with him? Perhaps, with his help you could find a job in interesting surroundings that would offer many prospects for new friends. If your husband feels as strongly about the futility of your marriage as you do, he might supplement your income or otherwise contribute to your security. If nothing works out, what have you lost?

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for the exchange on fancy church weddings for young couples who have been living together. You're right; it is in poor taste and an unnecessary expense to parents.

It is also a rip-off of the guests invited to the shindig, since they are supposed to show up with gifts in hand to avoid rupturing family and friend relationships.

I don't care if young people want to kick over my traditions, but I think they ought to try to live with the consequences.

The traditional wedding, and the party after it, has always symbolized a new beginning for a new family. So, if the family began two years ago, why throw a party now? And why ask friends to furnish the house?

TIRED OF THE RIP-OFF

DEAR TIRED: Those who feel as you do (and there are many) should decline invitations to such weddings and feel no obligation to send a gift.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

The Many Faces of Marcia

Marcia Savella has what most actresses would give their eye teeth for.

It's not what one might immediately think, although Ms. Savella does have enough pulchritude and talent for any two actresses in show business. What she has is a chance to show off her talents in a series of plum roles in a fine summer stock company.

Most actors and actresses get type-cast at some point in their careers and end up playing the same part over and over. The names of the characters they portray may change, but often the role changes very little. No such fate has befallen Marcia this summer, nor, for that matter, very often in her career.

Currently in the midst of her third role for The Playhouse, that of Leslie Casewell, one of eight characters under suspicion of having committed a bizarre murder in Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap," Marcia started her professional acting career at 15 with the Trinity Square Repertory Company in Providence, playing an innocent ingenue. Her last Broadway appearance was as a prostitute in "The Iceman Cometh" with James Earl Jones.

Audience and critical response to Marcia's performances at The Playhouse this summer has been enthusiastic. "The Mousetrap" has been so successful that its run has been extended for an additional week, through Sunday, July 27, but superb as the reception of the show has been, reception of Marcia has been even better. The Poughkeepsie Journal went so far as to call this versatile young actress "the best thing to happen to Woodstock this summer."

So far this summer she has managed to look, sound and move completely differently for each of her different roles. Playing the curvy nurse in the vaudeville skit of Neil Simon's "Sunshine Boys," she acted the part of a typical dumb but sexy blond very broadly, wiggling various parts of her anatomy and speaking in a breathy whisper. For Edith, the dithering maid in "Blithe Spirit," Marcia took on a cockney accent and dashed about wildly with her knees knocking.

Leslie Casewell in Agatha Christie's murder mystery is a totally different woman from the other two roles. As Marcia conceives the character, Miss Casewell is cool and sophisticated, smoking small cigars and staring with detached disdain at everyone else on stage.

When asked how she manages to present such widely different women, Marcia speaks as if she were a sculptor facing a block of clay or stone. "I start with a large mass," she explains, "then a shape comes to me, and I chisel the part down to bring out all thedetails that make a character over and over. That really saps your creativity."

Marcia's creativity is getting plenty of exercise at The Playhouse this summer. But if she ever decides it isn't getting enough of a work-out in the theater, she can always turn to other equally important parts of her career which includes TV and commerical voice-overs as well as work as a cabaret-singer-guitarist and choreographer-dancer.

For right now, however, Marcia is happy on stage at The Woodstock Playhouse. Local audiences ca catch her in "The Mousetrap" now through Saturday evenings at 8:30 and Sunday at 7 p.m. A matinee is set for Saturday afternoon at 2:30 when all tickets are specially priced for bargain hunters.

Audience members can guess then whether this newest face of Ma rcia Savella is the face of a murderer or merely that of an innocent bystander. Anyone who guesses right has a chance to win free tickets to another Playhouse production where one of the faces might turn out to be yet another incarnation of Marcia Savella.

This is the real Marcia Savella, as she looks when she's not on stage at the Woodstock Playhouse.

PAW Selects Next Production

"The Pursuit of Happiness" by Lawrence and Armina Langer, a romantic comedy with an American Revolutionary background, centered around the quaint old custom of bundling, will be the next production to be staged by Performing Arts of Woodstock.

The play has a cast of 11, eight of whom are men. Casting will begin shortly after director, Eleanor Schloman, completes her engagement at the Woodstock Playhouse where she is appearing as Mrs. Boyle in the Agatha Christie thriller, "The Mouse Trap , which has been held over through Sunday, July 27. Most recently, Mrs. Schloman directed The Players of Rio de Janeiro in "The Irregular Verb to Love" and "Miss Julie."

"The Pursuit of Happiness" will open in Woodstock early in October, then go on tour as PAW's contribution to the Woodstock Bicentennial Commission.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When one needs to use a baster for roast or chicken etc., and you don't have one handy or yours has seen its last days, use a plastic squeeze bottle with the tip on top. (Be sure to wash and rinse it well first.)

This makes an excellent substitute. All you do is squeeze and draw in the juice and squirt away.

Be sure the top is on tight so it won't leak, and you are all set.

Mrs. T.L.T.

Dear Heloise:

Just a few days ago my mother found a way to save on pillows. She uses my brothers' and sisters' old pullover shirts that have no zippers, buttons or snaps.

First she sews up each sleeve and the neck opening. Next she takes scraps of materials and stuffs it into the sleeves and body area. All that is left to do is sew up the bottom.

Now we have a pillow for the children's room and they are great to watch TV with.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Before the Rains Came

Bobby Bonds of the Yankees gets back to first base safely as White Sox Carlos May attempts tag after throw from pitcher Jess Jefferson. Bonds opened Wednesday night's game with a single and scored on Rich Coggins' triple. But none of it counted as the rains came, postponing the action and creating a doubleheader for this afternoon. (UPI)

SPORTS TODAY

Matlack Proves a Point

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jon Matlack keeps piling up evidence to support the New York Mets' contention that he is the best left-handed pitcher in the National League.

There are times, in fact, when it isn't difficult to coax the Mets' management into arguing that Matlack is as good as Tom Seaver, a two-time NL Cy Young Award winner and three-time 20-game winner.

Matlack has never won 20 games in a season but is overpowering when he is "on" — as was the case Wednesday night when he pitched a five-hitter to give the Mets a 5-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Ed Kranepool drove in three runs with three hits to lead the Mets' attack which dealt Gary Nolan his sixth loss against nine victories.

Matlack walked the first three batters in the first inning and Johnny Bench singled home the Reds' two runs before anyone was out. But Matlack retired the next 12 batters, including five on strikes and allowed just four singles and one walk for the balance of the game.

Kranepool drove in two runs with a single in the three-run third inning and also doubled in Felix Millan in the fifth.

The Mets say they could have traded Matlack during each of the last two seasons for $100,000 a year hitters but refused because they expect Seaver and Matlack to be the two best pitchers in the league in any given season.

Some Met experts argue that they already are.

The Philadelphia Phillies, whose usual style is blowing out the opposition with the long ball, proved Wednesday night they can also kill you softly.

With sluggers like Greg Luzinski, Mike Schmidt and Dick Allen the Phillies have earned a reputation as a power-hitting club, but they are also adept in the finer aspects of the game.

The Phillies, third in the National League in home runs with 76, forsook the power game for the running game Wednesday night and worked it to perfection in defeating the Atlanta Braves, 3-2.

Philadelphia, which did not manage an extra base hit off the knuckleball offerings of Bruce Dal Canton or reliever Elias Sosa, instead stole five bases and scored twice on perfectly executed squeeze bunts.

Stolen bases played a major part in all of the Phillies' runs. Cash singled in the first, stole second, was sacrificed to third and scored on Jay Johnstone's groundout.

In the second, Schmidt singled, took second on a passed ball, stole third and scored on Bob Boone's squeeze bunt.

With the score tied 2-2 in the eighth, the Phillies pushed across the winning run after Luzinski singled and stole second. Terry Harmon was sent in to run for Lueinski and reached third when Dick Allen intentionally hit the ball o he right side, grounding out to first base. Schmidt then beat out a bunt to the mound with Harmon scoring without a play at the plate.

"Many people think of us as just a power team," said Phillies' manager Danny Ozark, "but our big men can do other things as well. Allen and Schmidt are excellent bunters. We can hit-and-run with Allen, Schmidt, Luzinski and (Jay) Johnstone. Most of them can also steal a base.

"You have to win some game like this. You can't always count on five or six runs. Dick Allen may have made the biggest play of the game when he moved Harmon to third with a grounder to the right side on a tough knuckleball with two strikes on him.

"We started running from the first inning tonight with a knuckleballer pitching. It's the second time this year we've stolen five bases in a game. All this makes us tougher to play. Everybody is going to remember a game like this and not be too sure what our big men are going to do."

Jim Lonborg allowed only six hits and went the distance for the Phillies to register his eighth win in 14 decisions. Lonborg walked three and struck out five.

In other NL action, Houston edged Montreal 2-1, San Francisco whipped Chicago 10-2, Pittsburgh routed San Diego 8-1 and St. Louis beat Los Angeles 5-4.

Astros 2, Expos 1

Right-hander J.R. Richard tossed a five-hitter and Wilbur Howard singled home the tiebreaking run in the fifth inning to lead the Astros to victory over the Expos. Richard gave up a home run to Gary Carter in the fourth inning, but was not in serious trouble again as he walked five and struck out six in gaining his seventh win.

Giants 10, Cubs 2

John Montefusco pitched a six-hitter and contributed a solo home run to a 10-hit attack in helping the Giants to a victory over the Cubs. Chris Speier also had a three-run homer for the Giants, who tagged Steve Stone with his fifth loss in 12 decisions.

Pirates 8, Padres 1

Dock Ellis pitched a fourhitter and batterymate Manny Sanguillen hit a two-run homer to pace the Pirates' victory over the Padres. Sanguillen's homer, coming with Richie Zisk aboard in the eighth inning, extended his hitting streak to 15 games.

Cardinals 5, Dodgers 4

Ted Sizemore's two-run single triggered a three-run sixth inning which enabled the Cardinals to defeat the Dodgers. Reggie Smith collected four hits for St. Louis, which notched its fifth consecutive victory. Bob Forsch went 8 2-3 innings to gain the win while Don Sutton suffered the loss. Willie Crawford and Lee Lacy had back-to-back pinch-hit homers for the Dodgers in the ninth inning.

Tanana Now Angels' Ace

After two months without one, the California Angels finally got a Nolan Ryan performance from their best pitcher Wednesday night.

His eight strikeout, six-hit shutout pitching enabled the Angels to beat the Baltimore Orioles and Jim Palmer, 1-0.

There was only one hitch.

Nolan Ryan didn't pitch.

Frank Tanana, who has taken over from Ryan as the ace of the Angels' staff, raised his record to 9-5 and regained the American League strikeout lead from his teammate with 159.

Ryan has not won a game since June 6, losing eight in a row to drop his record to 10-11. Tanana has won seven of eight in the same span, and Manager Dick Williams thinks he knows why.

"Tanana's breaking ball sets him apart from Ryan," Williams said, intimating Ryan is still basically a one-pitch pitcher. "Tanana uses his breaking ball as an out pitch."

Tanana's victory was assured by an eighth-inning gamble. Following singles by Ken Singleton and Paul Blair and a sacrifice bunt, the Angels elected to pitch to Lee May with first base open instead of walking him. May was retired and, after Bobby Grich was walked, Tanana retired Don Baylor to end the inning.

"I had struck May out on a high fastball in the sixth and I thought I could get him out again," Tanana said. "I just got the right kind of pitch in the right place and he popped it up. It's Grich we really wanted to pitch around. He's the toughest out for me in their lineup."

California scored the game's only run in the first inning when Dave Collins walked with two out, stole second and came home on a single by Joe Lahoud.

Although the Orioles lost and dropped eight games behind first place Boston in the East, there was some good news because Palmer pitched without strain. He had missed his last start with a pulled rib cage muscle.

"We'll be very happy if we're only five games behind by August 1," said Orioles' Manager Earl Weaver.

In other American League games, Boston topped Minnesota 4-2, Oakland blanked Detroit 3-0, Texas edged Cleveland 9-8 in 13 innings, and Kansas City beat Milwaukee 41. The New York at Chicago game was rained out.

Red Sox 4, Twins 2

A solo homer by Cecil Cooper, a two-run single by Rick Burleson and two leaping catches by rookie left fielder Jim Rice helped the Red Sox stretch their Eastern Division lead to 6½ games. Rice, known more for his hitting, robbed Glenn Borgmann of homers with leaping catches against the fence in the fifth and seventh innings.

A's 3, Tigers 0

Vida Blue ended a threegame losing streak with a seven-hit, nine-strikeout performance, raising his record to 138. Gene Tenace doubled in a run in the second inning, then singled home a run in the seventh and scored the third run of the game on a sacrifice fly by Phil Garner.

Rangers 9, Indians 8

Texas blew a 7-2 lead when Cleveland rallied for five runs with two out in the ninth, but the Rangers won it with two in the bottom of the 13th. A single by Tom Robson and a double by Tom Grieve tied the score 88. An error and two intentional walks followed before pinchhitter Mike Cubbage hit a sacrifice fly to score the winning run.

Royals 4, Brewers 1

Marty Pattin allowed just six hits in a game delased twice by rain for a total of nearly three hours. Home runs by Buck Martinez and John Mayberry accounted for two of the Kansas City runs.

Hurley Teams Gain Finals

Safe at First

Esopus's Jodi Van Loan has a look of satisfaction on her face as she crosses first base safely during Wednesday night's District 16 Division I Little League girls softball playoff game. Unfortunately for Jodi and her mates, Hurley won the game 9-2 to advance to the finals. Protecting first base is Julie Grayson (80). (Freeman photo)—

KINGSTON

The Hurley Little League will be represented in both divisions of the District 16 Girls Softball Tournament finals Friday.

In Division I, Hurley faces the Kingston National League All Stars, while in Division II Hurley plays the Kingston American League All Stars. Sites have not been announced.

Semifinal contests were played Wednesday, and in Division I, Hurley ousted Esopus, 9-2, and the Nationals topped ulster, 6-5. Hurley downed Esopus, 15-10 in the Division II tourney, while the Americans took a 1-0 decision from Ulster.

In opening round results Monday, it was Ulster a 14-2 winner over Rondout and the Nationals over the Americans in Division I. In Division II, Esopus whipped Rondout, 12-0.

Hurley's Mary Tentnowski pitched a one-hitter in Division I to lead her team to victory. Nancy Klinger had a pair of hits to ace a nine-hit attack.

Karen Brooks doubled and singled twice to power the Kingston National stars. Judy Prosser struck out four and gave up only four hits for the winners.

Jodi Van Loan of Esopus broke up the no-hit bid with a single. Kim Mitchell didn't allow a base on balls but gave up nine hits to take the defeat.

Nadine Fischer got four of Hurley's five hits, drove in five runs and was the winning pitcher in the Division II contest against Esopus. Esopus outhit the winners 10-5, but eight walks helped the Hurley cause. Michelle McLane added a pair of RBI's to the Hurley total.

In Monday's Division II opener, Roxanne Pecora threw a five-hit shutout to beat Rondout Valley. Kathy Moxham doubled, singled twice and drove in four runs to head the Esopus attack.

Details on the other games were not reported.

Em Tunnell Dead at 50

PLEASANTVILLE, N.Y. (UPI) — Emlen Tunnell, star of the famed N.Y. Giant "umbrella defense" of the 1950s, died of an apparent heart attack at the team's training camp Tuesday night.

Tunnell, 50, was stricken in his dormitory room ut 11:45 p.m. and apparently succumbed immediately.

During his brilliant National Football League career as a safety man, he set four league records which still stand. hs played 11 seasons with the Giants (1948-58) and three more with the Green Bay Packers (1959-1961.)

His records are 79 career interceptions, most punt returns (258) and most yardage on both interception and punt returns.

Tunnell, who played football at the University of Iowa and while in service with the Navy, was not scouted by the Giants. He merely walked into the club's offices and asked for a tryout. He went on to play in the the All Pro Bowl seven straight years.

A member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame, he was named to the 50th anniversary All-NFL all-time team.

When his playing days were over at Green Bay, he joined the Giants as a scout in 1962. He was an assistant coach from 1965 until last year, when he was named assistant director of personnel.

At the time of his death, he was attending a meeting of all Giant scouts at the camp.

In the '50s, he was a key figure in the Giants' then new defensive pattern, called the "umbrella." With him in the pattern were Otto Schnellenbacher, Harmon Rowe and Tom Landry.

He is survived by his widow, Patti.

Burial will be in Ardmore, Pa.

American Men Set Record

CALI, Colombia (UPI) — The American men set the first world record of the Cali World Swimming Championships Tuesday night while their team mate Shirley Babashoff proved that "our fillies don't fold."

Despite adverse wather conditions which sent a blustery wind into the swimmer's faces on the home strech in Cali's Pan-American Pool, Bruce Furniss, Jim Montgomery, Andy Coan and John Murphy swam the 4 x 100 meters freestyle in the record time of 3:24.85.

Miss Babashoff, the experienced 18-year-old from Mission Viejo, Calif., showed that the Americans have not conceded to East Germany when she beat out favored Kornelia Ender in the women's 200 meters freestyle in 2:02.50.

The second-place time of 15year-old Miss Ender was 2:02.63, almost one-half second slower than her world record time of 2:02.27. Third and good enough for Bronze was the only black competitor in the Cali meet, Enith Brigitha, a 20-yearold native of Caraco.

The Americans were the overwhelming favorities in the men's events but the East German women were expected to dominate in heir category, especially the sprints.

American women's coach Flip Darr, however, had warned against taking too mucho for granted. "There was a famous horse race not too long ago where it was said the filly folded. Well, we were here to prove that our fillies don't fold," Darr said.

Another American girl, 19-year-old Marcia Morey of Decatur, Ill., finished third in the women's 100 meter breaststroke and captured a bronze for the United States with a time of 1:15.00. That even was won by another East German girl, Hannelore Anke, in 1:12.72, while a Dutch girl, Wijda Mazereeuw was second for the silver with 1:14.29. Miss Mazereeuw reached her prime relatively late at the age of 22.

American men's coach Ron Ballatore of Pasadena, Calif., had predicted that all world relay records were the most vulnerable at the Cali meet and he was proven right in the 4 x 100 meter freestyle relay.

The American team's time of 3:24.85 was fractions of a second faster than the 3:25.17 performance of the American combination last year at the dual meet with the Germans at Concord, Calif.,

West Germany took second in the relays on the strength of a 51.76 opening lap by Klaus Steinbach — quicker than the 51.82 of America's opening ace Fourniss — and the Italian men took the third-place bronze medal.

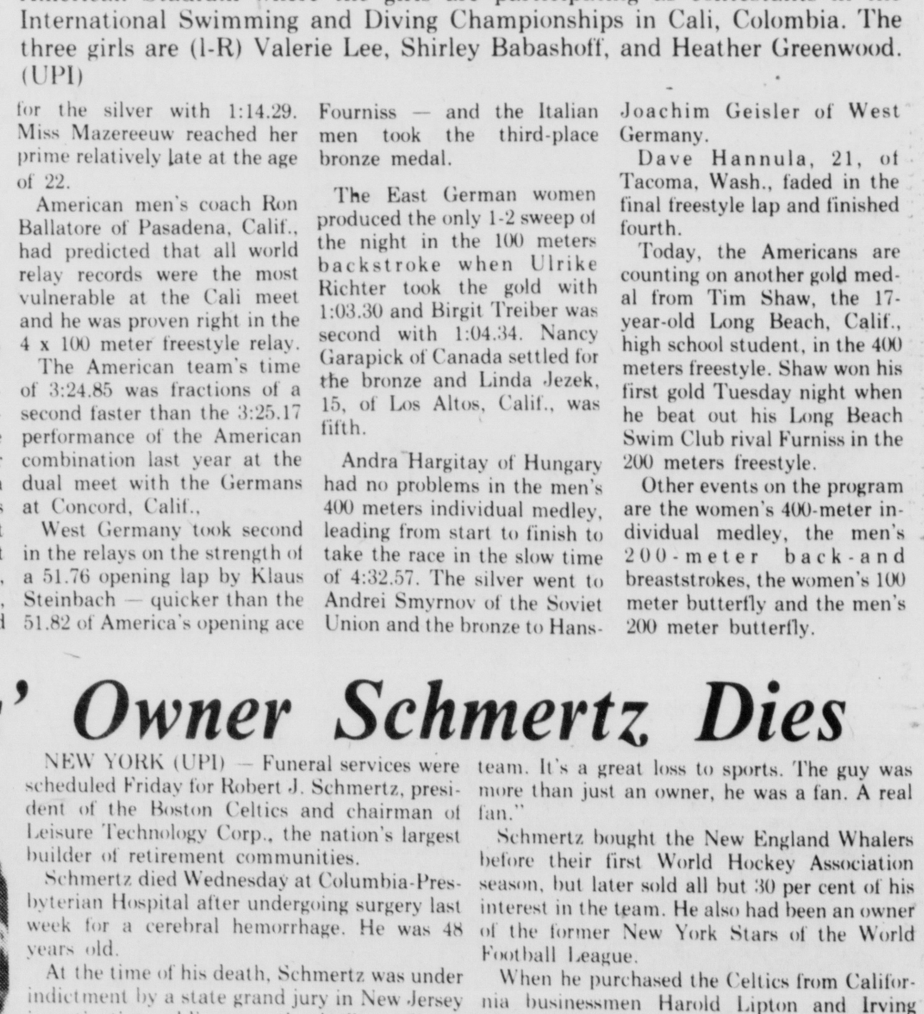

The East German women produced the only 1-2 sweep of the night in the 100 meters backstroke when Ulrike Richter took the gold with 1:03.30 and Birgit Treiber was second with 1:04.34. Nancy Garapick of Canada settled for the bronze and Linda Jezek, 15, of Los Altos, Calif., was fifth.

Andra Hargitay of Hungary had no problems in the men's 400 meters individual medley, leading from start to finish to take the race in the slow time of 4:32.57. The silver went to Andrei Smyrnov of the Soviet Union and the bronze to Hans-Joachim Geisler of West Germany.

Dave Hannula, 21, of Tacoma, Wash., faded in the final freestyle lap and finished fourth.

Today, the Americans are counting on another gold medal from Tim Shaw, the 17-year-old Long Beach, Calif., high school student, in the 400 meters freestyle. Shaw won his first gold Tuesday night when he beat out his Long Beach Swim Club rival Furniss in the 200 meters freestyle.

Other events on the program are the women's 400-meter individual medley, the men's 200-meter back-and breaststrokes, the women's 100 meter butterfly and the men's 200 meter butterfly.

Celts' Owner Schmertz Dies

BOB SCHMERTZ

NEW YORK (UPI) — Funeral services were scheduled Friday for Robert J. Schmertz, president of the Boston Celtics and chairman of Leisure Technology Corp., the nation's largest builder of retirement communities.

Schmertz died Wednesday at Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital after undergoing surgery last week for a cerebral hemorrhage. He was 48 years old.

At the time of his death, Schmertz was under indictment by a state grand jury in New Jersey investigating public corruption in Ocean County.

He and an associate were charged with offering a bribe two years ago in exchange for zoning rulings on a senior citizens complex Leisure Technology constructed.

As a businessman, Schmertz was a man with an endless string of ventures. But as the owner of professional sports teams — he bought the Celtics for $3.7 million in 1972 — he was simply Bob Schmertz, superfan.

"He played high school basketball and he just loved the game," said Celtics General Manager Red Auerbach. "He was just fantastic to the team. It's a great loss to sports. The guy was more than just an owner, he was a fan. A real fan."

Schmertz bought the New England Whalers before their first World Hockey Association season, but later sold all but 30 per cent of his interest in the team. He also had been an owner of the former New York Stars of the World Football League.

When he purchased the Celtics from California businessmen Harold Lipton and Irving Levine, Schmertz reportedly agreed to give the pair a one-year option to buy back half the team. Yet when the Californians tried to exercise the purported option, Schmertz refused to approve the sale.

A long legal wrangle ensued, with Schmertz finally losing the case.

Schmertz began amassing his fortune in Ocean County in the 1960s, when he founded Leisure Technology. It was estimated that by 1974, one out of every seven Ocean County residents lived in a home built by the firm.

He is survived by his widow, the former Phyllis Kane, a son and two daughters.

Kingston Edges Rhinebeck

MORGAN HILL

The Kingston Soccer Club, which had suffered its first defeat of the season last week at the hands of Peekskill, got back on the winning track Wednesday evening with a 3-2 victory over Rhinebeck at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

Peekskill had blanked Kingston, 3-0.

Johnny Robinson, the Mid-Hudson Soccer League's leading scorer, tallied twice as Kingston beat Rhinebeck and Bod Davis added another. Pete Huber and Paul Heeney were the marksmen for Rhinebeck.

Robinson made it 1-0 at the 20 minute mark when he took a pass from veteran Jimmy Reinhardt. Two minutes later, Huber caromed a shot off Kingston defenseman Dieter Raucher to even the count, but with five minutes remaining in the half, Davis scored on a breakway.

Robinson came out of a goalmouth scramble to score Kingston's third goal at 21 minutes of the second half. Heeney's late tally proved meaningless.

Joe Palumbo's first half goal and second half scores by Don Peterkin and Dan Corbi gave Peekskill its victory over Kingston. Peekskill thoroughly dominated the contest, outshooting the locals 15-6.

Kingston still leads the standings with six wins, one loss, and a tie in eight games.

The statistics:

Rider Powers Rudy's, 5-2

KINGSTON

A physical Rudy's Meat Market team, led by the hot shooting of Rob Rider, outhustled the Rhinebeck Dolphins to a 5-2 decision Wednesday in a Metropolitan-Colonial Division battle in the Mid Hudson Soccer Association.

In other Wednesday games, Chick Dalton Memorial blanked Vin's Mobil, 4-0 also in the Metro-Colonial loop; and in the National Division, Port Ewen Athletic Association stopped Marcel, 5-1, and the Rhinebeck Sportsmen beat Oscar's Tapers, 6-0. Oscars won a Tuesday contest from Greimel Enterprises, 4-3.

Rider pulled off a hat trick to pace the Butchers to their triumph. Wes Holland and Phil Cooms also scored goals as the Dolphins couldn't match the pressure tactics of the winners.

John Schaeffer and Toby Fallis booted two goals apiece against the Vin's Mobil defenses to lead the Chick Dalton squad.

Port Ewen tightened its hold on second place behind Garraghan Oil in the National Division standings. The Rhinebeck Sportsmen moved into third with their win over Oscars.

Makeup games continue today with Maennerchor meeting Marcel and Court Restaurant facing Dawkins Insurance.

In skeet, Lauffer had .900 to edge Schmedake's .840 and Sawchuck's .760.

The shooters from around the county visit Wawarsing Sunday for this week's circuit stop.

Strong Pitching Highlights BRL

KINGSTON

Junior Babe Ruth League pitchers Bob Easter and Bob Schlanger each had exceptional performances to hurl their teams to victory. Easter struck out 18 batters in the Knights of Columbus' 5-3 win over Quilty Insurance while Schlanger fired a four-hit shutout to lift the VFW to a 2-0 decision over the Vols.

Easter overpowered the Quilty lineup, allowing only three hits and three walks in the contest. Quilty did manage to get a run across in the top of the first, but the Knights scored two in the bottom half, and Easter fired five scoreless innings after that. The K of C ace also belted a triple over the center fielder's head to drive in a run.

Jim Palmer also had an RBI for the winners. Losing pitcher Bob Whiffen, who gave up five hits while walking five and fanning seven, drove in a run for Quilty.

Schlanger had trouble with only the Vols' Gerard Berardi who got three of the four hits in the game for the losers. Loser Joe Augustine only gave up three hits himself, but a single, an error and a wild pitch provided the VFW with all the runs it needed in the first.

Mike Schlanger led off the game with a base hit and stole second. With two outs, Ed Vertetis singled, and Schlanger scored as the ball got by the left fielder. Vertetis came in on Augusinte's wild pitch.

Schlanger had seven strikeouts and Augustine fanned 13 as the teams tied

Infield Open Sunday

MONTICELLO — There'll be something of the festive spirit of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness at Monticello Raceway Sunday when, for the first time in its history, the infield of the Sullivan County harness track will be opened to patrons in order to give racing fans an unusual and intimate view of the inaugural of the Monticello-New York City OTB Classic, the richest event in standardbred history with a purse of some $300,000.

In order to accommodate the anticipated large crowd on hand to witness the pace for 10 New York-bred three-year-old pacers, the infield has been converted into a spectator and wagering area, Monticello's assistant general manager Robert Schoonmaker announced.

"We have installed a full range of pari-mutuel windows. Food and refreshment stands have been erected, as have been complete sanitary facilities," Schoonmaker said. "In short, our infield will be a delightful place to spend a pleasant afternoon and will offer a view of the exciting races not ordinarily witnessed by even the most veteran and dedicated harness racing fan," Schoonmaker said.

Fans intending to use the infield facility should arrange to arrive at the track well before 2 p.m., a cut-off time after which the public will no longer be permitted to cross the track before the races start. Provision has been made for pedestrian traffic to and from the infield after the third and seventh races.

The Monticello-OTB Classic will be held as the seventh race. There will also be two other outstanding paces featuring those 15 of the 25 final eligibles who did not survive the elimination events for the Classic itself.

All seats at Monticello will be reserved Sunday. Tickets are still available at the track's main floor admissions office.

Narrow Victory For Village Inn

KINGSTON — Ray's Village Inn scored a run in the last of the seventh inning at Block Park Wednesday night to edge Greenkill Tavern, 11-10 in the AAA Division of the City Slo-Pitch League.

In other triple-A battles, Mastro Construction whipped the Jets, 9-6, and Uhl Construction topped the Beekman Arms, 7-1.

Hy Van Wagenen slammed a pair of homers and drove in five runs, and teammate Walt Webber cracked four hits and had two RBI's to lead Ray's. The winners led by four going into the seventh, but Greenkill rallied to tie the contest.

Denny Klonowski and Tim Pillsworth each homered for the losers and split six RBI's. Pillsworth also tripled.

Mastro was outhit but not outscored as Ray Lindhorst homered and knocked in three to pace the victory. Tom Tiano and Charlie Groeters banged solo homers for the Jets.

Uhl's scored five in the third and won easily as winner Bud Bunt pitched six innings of scoreless ball. Don Hastings and Dink Dugan each homered, and Doc Norton tripled for the winners. Dave Sigler belted a three-bagger for the Arms.

Janet Yallum Issues 'Broadside Attack'

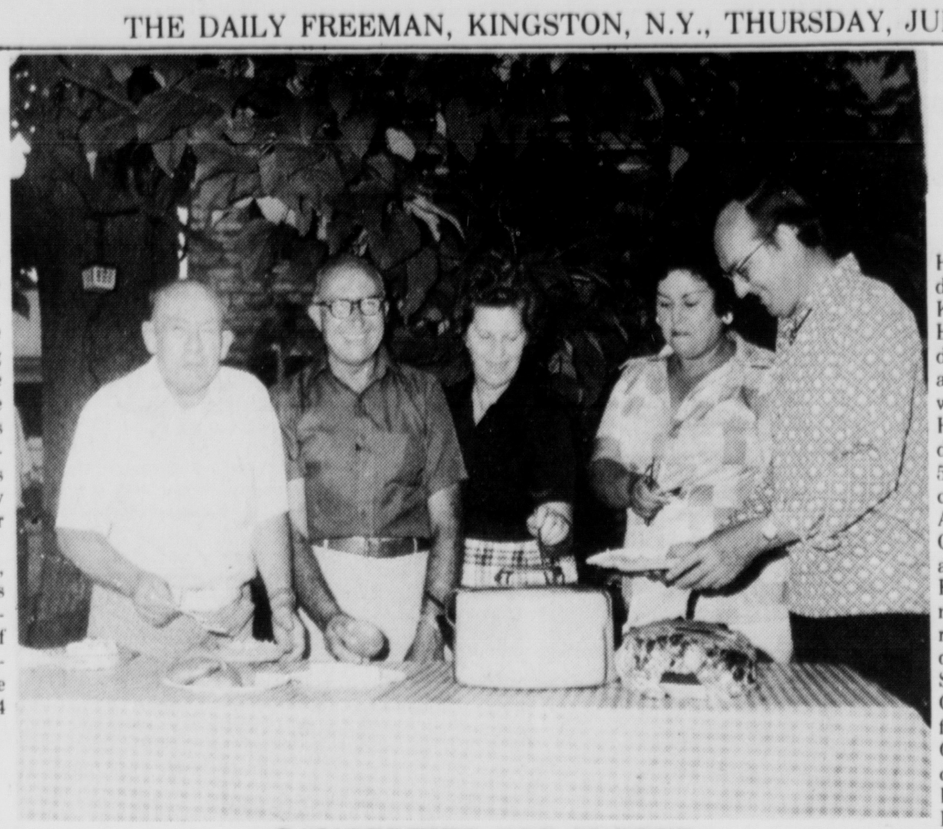

KINGSTON

Pointing out what she calls a "consistant pattern" in the Ulster County Legislature's lack of action in seeking possible sources of federal funds and aid to alleviate unemployment here since 1972, Janet C. Yallum, Democratic candidate from District 5, today issued what she called a "broadside attack on the GOP-controlled legislature."

Mrs. Yallum, who seeks to represent the towns of Olive, Hurley and Ulster, said "this is the same legislature that hesitated for three years before establishing an Office for the Aging." Available state funds could have been helping our county's senior citizens during that period, she said.

Mrs. Yallum also pointed to the "lack of planning and setting forth priorities. They (the legislators) build an expensive swimming pool in New Paltz, they fret over parking space near the county office building and meanwhile they ignore programs which could help the unemployed and aging. This is the Republican controlled legislature which tried to get its terms of office doubled, by asking voters to extend their term to four years."

The legislative candidate, who sought office two years ago, recalled that a referendum on changing the length of a legislator's term was defeated when it was on the ballot in the September 1974 primary.

Canada Bars Soviets Say Exceeded Quotas

OTTAWA (UPI) — Soviet fishing vessels will be barred from Atlantic ports in Canada as of Monday for having exceeded fishing quotas in Canadian waters by as much as 100 per cent this year, Fisheries (ICNAF) Minister Romeo Leblanc announced Wednesday.

Leblanc said Soviet overfishing of quotas set by the International Commission for the Northwest Atlantic fisheries in areas off Canada's east coast brought about the action.

"Over the past year, the Soviet fleet has consistently overfished certain of its quotas," Leblanc said. "Repeated attempts by Canada to bring these practices to a halt have met with no satisfactory response from Soviet authorities."

Leblanc said Soviet fishing for capelin was one of the major instances of overfishing. He said in 1974, despite diplomatic representations in Moscow and Ottawa, the Soviets overran an 85,000 metric ton quota of capelin by 67 and 75 percent.

In 1975, he said, "the Soviet capelin fleet has shown the same disregard for ICNAF regulations. The Soviet capelin fishery near Newfoundland's Avalon Peninsula has exceeded its 28,000 metric ton quota, according to Canadian estimates, by more than 100 percent."

Leblanc said similar action will be taken against Spanish and Portuguese fishing vessels if action is not taken to correct violations.

Summons For Sign

KINGSTON

A summons was issued today in Kingston City Court ordering Anthony Peone, proprietor of Tony's Stereo Tape Center, 496 Albany Avenue, to appear in court next Thursday, July 31 to answer a charge of harassment, lodged against him by Harry M. Thayer of WGHQ.

The charge stems from a sign in front of the tape center. Thayer charges in an accusatory instrument that he was "annoyed and alarmed and could see no legitimate purpose" for the sign.

Carey Urges City Workers To Agree to Wage Freeze

ALBANY (UPI) — Saying it was a time for "sacrifices," Gov. Hugh L. Carey has urged New York City employes to accept a voluntary freeze on their wage levels because "it is better to have a paycheck ... than no check at all."

New York City Mayor Abraham D. Beame, who has said a freeze or salary cut is needed to salvage the city from disaster, reacted by saying he was "pleased" by Carey's suggestion and backed the idea.

Union leaders, however, labeled it "outrageous."

Albert Shanker, head of the United Federation of Teachers, said "it's outrageous for the governor to ask only one group to make sacrifices."

Victor Gotbaum, head of the city's largest municipal union, said Carey's suggestion offered "no contribution to any solution."

Carey also said Wednesday he might call the legislature back into session to again deal with New York City, but only if city leaders can come up with a program that is "fundamentally sound."

"It will not help New York City if it becomes not only a creature of the state but a dependent of the state," Carey said.

Speaking with reporters while on a tour of the Port of Albany, the governor said "everyone has to make some sacrifices" to solve New York's fiscal woes.

Carey said "The best way to have that might be a voluntary freeze on salaries ... It is better to have a paycheck, rather than no check at all."

Carey urged union leaders to work with the city and members of the Municipal Assistance Corp. —"Big MAC" —to work out a voluntary freeze. He said such a move was necessary to restore investor confidence in the fiscal health of the city.

"Big MAC," created by the legislature to bail out the city, has received a cool reception from investors. On its first day of public trading this week, the corporation lost about $70 million.

While Beame has said freezes are needed to stem the city's trouble, some legal experts say only the state legislature, which adjourned earlier this month, has the authority to require such a move. A voluntary agreement would avoid the need for state action.

The governor said he did not see an immediate need for a special session, saying "every locality must do all it can to help itself before it calls upon the state to do so."

Carey said he was troubled by two offers made on state bonds, both carrying high interest rates. "People tend to identify a condition in one part of the state with what it is like in the rest of the state," Carey said.

Tuesday, two New York City banks submitted bids on a $10 million bond issue offered by the State Job Development Authority. They sought interest payments of about 7.5 per cent, a huge jump from the 5.7 per cent rate the state paid for its last bond sale, in November.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt rejected both bids as excessively high.

Portuguese Radicals Gain In Government

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Communist-backed radicals in Portugal's military government have reportedly put down a challenge by moderates and have drawn up plans to consolidate their power.

Military officials refused to confirm reports the radical bloc had gained the upper hand in the military assembly and rejected demands for reforms.

But government and political sources said several plans were under discussion and all pointed to the emergence of a stronger Communist-oriented military leadership.

The radicals were expected to present their proposals to the military's full 240-man assembly later this week, possibly Friday.

One of the plans reportedly calls for creation of a three-man junta to supercede the military rulers. It would consist of a president, prime minister and chief of military security — -all members of the radical wing of the ruling Armed Forces Movement.

Another plan reportedly would create an 11-man "college" dominated by left-wing military men as the new ruling body.

A third proposal would give President Francisco da Costa Gomes the added job of prime minister. Gen. Otelo Carvalho would remain as security chief and Prime Minister Vasco Goncalves would move to another position of power.

It appeared certain the Socialist and Popular Democratic parties would reject all the plans. The country's two largest parties withdrew from the coalition cabinet over demands for democratic reforms.

The Socialists say they will not rejoin until Goncalves is removed as prime minister. The Popular Democrats have vowed to remain out until the military drops its plans to set up a "people's democracy" in place of political parties.

The government today denied rumors that Goncalves had resigned. An official statement read on morning newscasts described the rumors as "without foundation" and issued Goncalves' official schedule for the day.

The leftward drift of the government has prompted the mostly conservative population of the Azores Islands to threaten to break away from Portugal.

The United States maintains an air base on one of the nine mid-Atlantic islands.

Adderley Near Death

GARY, Ind. (UPI) — Swingin' jazz saxman Julian "Cannonball" Adderley lingered near death today, the victim of a massive stroke which has left him paralyzed on the right side and unable to speek.

Adderley was listed in "extremely critical condition" early today in St. Mary Mercy Medical Center, where he was taken 10 days ago after suffering a stroke.

The 46-year-old jazz musician was stricken July 13 after stopping here en route to Indianapolis for an engagement with a six-member combo. He was being kept alive today only by mechanical means.

A New York publicity agent for the saxophonist said Adderley's wife, Olga, had asked radio listeners on five jazz stations around the country to pray twice daily for him.

The stations, he said, are KJAZ, San Francisco; KBCA, Los Angeles; WJZZ, Detroit; and WRVR and WQIV, New York.

Actor Critical

CHICAGO (UPI) — Veteran actor Pat O'Brien, 75, was placed on the critical list today at Little Company of Mary Hospital in suburban Evergreen Park.

O'Brien, here for a summer theater production of "Skip and Go Naked" with his wife, was hospitalized Tuesday after complaining of chest pains.

Cavanaugh President

SCHENECTADY

Joseph M. Cavanaugh of Schenectady was elected president of the Empire State Laryngectomee Association (ESLA) at the annual meeting held recently at the Sunnyview Hospital and Rehabilitation Center.

ESLA represents local clubs throughout New York State, providing exchange of information, ideas and programs among local clubs. Members are those who have had their larnyx (voice box) removed, usually as a result of cancer.

Programs for the coming year include a presentation outlining procedures first aid personnel should follow when caring for a laryngectomee in an emergency.

A local club meets at Northern Dutchess Hospital in Rhinebeck and invites all laryngectomees in the area to participate. Further information can be held from Benjamin Zomkowski of Rhinebeck, ESLA vice president.

Cleanup Permits

NEW YORK CITY

The United States Environmental Protection Agency has granted final water pollution cleanup permits to the Village of Saugerties and Hudson Cement Company in Kingston.

Each permit sets a limit on discharges of specific types of effluents and sets up a phased schedule for any further cleanup efforts that are needed. Permits require the use of the "best practicable" water pollution control technology by July 1, 1977, or more stringent controls if needed to achieve state water quality goals for the Hudson River, in this case.

Demonstrators Mar Greek Anniversary

ATHENS (UPI) — Greece marked the first anniversary today of the return to democracy in the land where it was born. Left-wing youths took to the streets in a violent anti-government demonstration.

Premier Constantine Caramanlis, who returned from exile a year ago to end seven years of military dictatorship, Wednesday praised Greece's infant democracy but urged a change in "mentality and attitude."

"To build a new and better Greece, we must treasure our peace and social and national unity," the 67-year-old prime minister said in a nationally televised address.

While Caramanlis spoke, thousands of demonstrators armed with rocks, sticks and bricks battled riot police in the streets of downtown Athens.

The clashes began Wednesday morning when striking left-wing construction workers marched on the Labor Ministry to demand higher pay and better working conditions.

Swelled by mobs of leftist youths, the crowd attacked construction workers who refused to strike, then marched to Omonia Square, where they chanted "down with Caramanlis" and "out with the fascists."

Riot police backed by armored cars managed to break up the crowd with tear gas, but small groups of demonstrators ran into narrow side streets and made makeshift barricades out of overturned cars.

The government said 35 policemen and 30 civilians were injured in the rioting. Police arrested 40 persons. Witnesses said some police fired guns but the government denied the allegation.

All major political parties, including the Communist sponsors of the strike and demonstration, denounced the riots.

The government said the clashes would not interfere with plans to celebrate the anniversary of Caramanlis' return to Greece.

The military regime collapsed a year ago after a Greek-led coup on Cyprus touched off Turkey's invasion of the eastern Mediterranean island.

Asked to form a new government, the self-exiled Caramanlis arrived from Paris in the early morning of July 24, 1974, to take over the nation's leadership.

Your Astrograph

For Friday, July 25, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't expect too much from things you plan for today. Your greatest joy comes from an unexpected encounter with a friend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Time spent brooding over real or imagined problems will be wasted. Immersing yourself in work could pay big dividends.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll look outside the family for enjoyment today, but you'll soon learn that the best bet for you is where the heart is.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Engage in necessary activity and get good and tired today. Too much idle time will depress you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you want something kept confidential, don't tell even a friend. You'll be to blame if a distorted version came back later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your traditional balance is so overly acute today you'll waste time jousting with windmills. Forget it. Have a good time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Inherently you're an intense person. Today that trait is so magnified you could forsake striving for minor enjoyments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Avoid gambling with romance or dollars today. Your hunches are poor. You'll turn up a loser.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your ideas will get a cool reception from the family today. Be prepared for an argument or go out with pals.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's a day when what you think you want, you won't and what you have you won't be happy with.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Save yourself a pile of money. Lock up your pocketbook. Frivolous desires could cost you dearly.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Dr. Jean Adams

BIG MOUTH PLUS: (Q.) I talked too much. I told my girl friend a lie about Wesley and she told him. He called me and told me it was all over. That was last year.

Now we are talking again, but that is all. I want him back. In September he will leave for college and I am sure he will forget me. What can I do? — Afraid in Texas

(A.) At college Wesley, if he is like most freshmen, will be lonesome and homesick — at least for a while. Offer to write to him. Ask him to write to you. This should help keep you in his thoughts.

Also, before he leaves, assure him that you have learned a lesson.

A big mouth is bad; a big, lying mouth is doubly bad.

NO DATES: (Q.) I never had any luck with any girl. As soon as a girl finds out I like her she gets uptight with me, so I haven't been able to get any dates. I like this girl named Nicole but I have never talked to her because I haven't had any occasion to.

She had a girl friend who hated me, so I am afraid she hates me too. Thy don't hang around together any longer and I've thought about asking Nicole for a date, but am afraid she would say no. What do you think I am doing wrong? — Ineffective in Indiana

(A.) You are being negative.

You are getting uptight about yourself, putting a negative rating on yourself. This is cantagious. Girls sense it in you and react in kind.

Relax, take it easy, hope, expect, smile, tell yourself, "I can!"

Practice doing all this a few days. Then talk to Nicole about a date. She will probably like the positive way you talk.

Jackass Gets East's Goat

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The defense was short, sweet and unsuccessful. East rose with the ace of diamonds and returned the king of spades. It held and he continued with the queen. West thought about overtaking but finally ducked. East led a diamond and South rattled off the rest of the tricks.

You play like a jackass," shouted East. "Don't you know that I would have raised you in spades if I held king-queen and another."

West was tempted to stand up and poke East in the nose, but refrained for two reasons. First of all, he was a trifle ashamed of his play, but secondly he had a beautiful sarcastic speech ready."

"You know," he told his partner, "there is a traditional way to get a jackass' attention.

You hit him over the head with a two by four. You could have obtained this effect by leading the queen and then the king of spades. This unnatural play could mean just one thing.

You held just two spades. I would have risen with my ace and given you a ruff to set the contract."

Congress Wants Controls on Oil

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has indicated through a series of votes on an energy bill that any new White House compromise on oil pricing must include controls.

In return, Congress might accept a much higher figure than the present $5.25 a barrel ceiling.

President Ford had these possibilities before him today as he worked on a compromise measure he hopes to send Congress by Friday. That would give lamwakers the five working days they are allowed to disapprove the offer before starting a scheduled month-long recess Aug. 1.

White House spokesmen said Ford had a new plan ready, but they would not discuss it. Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he expected it might be a three-year phase-out of present controls that now cover 60 percent of domestic oil and which will expire Aug. 31.

The House earlier this week rejected 262-167 a Ford plan to decontrol the oil over 30 months. It was doubtful, from House votes in the past two days, that even a 36-month phase-out would be acceptable.

The House, working on a massive new energy bill out of its commerce committee, rejected on a 326-94 vote Tuesday a proposal to control all domestic oil at $11.28 a barrel.

It followed on Wednesday with a 220-202 vote to reject a plan to wipe out price controls over a five-year period, but only after a tax to capture windfall profits was enacted. A few hours later the bill's provision to set controls at $7.50 a barrel was also eliminated on a 215-199 vote.

The amended bill, if left unchanged, would make the present controls permanent, but a new amendment was expected when the House returns to the measure — probably not until Friday — calling for a ceiling of $10.50 a barrel.

What the series of votes also achieved was to message Ford that the House does not want a ceiling as high as the $11.28 that was rejected, but it does want controls of some sort and would accept a considerable boost in the present $5.25 lid.

Lacking any compromise by this time next week, an interim agreement might be reached to extend present controls a few months past the Aug. 31 expiration date, freeing lawmakers for their vacation and allowing time for renewed compromise talks in September.

Presidential economist Alan Greenspan said Wednesday oil price increases expected in the fall — from decontrol and from higher rates by foreign producers — are not likely to have the devastating impact on the economy that many, including the Congressional Budget Office, have predicted.

Late Arriving President

About 900 Congressional summer interns, kept waiting 30 minutes in the hot, stuffy East Room of the White House heckled President Ford. The heckling was good-natured and the President took it in stride. (UPI)

Longshoremen Balk At Loading Russian Grain

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The International Longshoreman's Association says it will refuse to load grain for Russia until its 132,000 dockworkers are assured the price of bread and beer won't go up as a result.

Almost 800 delegates to the ILA (AFL-CIO) convention stomped, whistled, cheered and clapped after voicing unanimous approval of a "don't load" resolution Wednesday.

The statement leaves up to ILA President Thomas Gleason the final decision on whether to load the wheat, corn and barley Russia bought from the United States in a multi-million dollar deal recently.

Gleason said he would meet with officials of other maritime unions in Chicago Tuesday and with AFL-CIO executive council members Wednesday. He said AFL-CIO President George Meany is investigating the grain deal with Russia and particularly Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz' statement that the sale would cause only a "nominal increase" in living costs next year.

"A 'nominal increase' to him (Butz) might be a dollar a loaf for bread," Gleason said.

ILA officials also said the sale of 51 million bushels of barley to the Soviets could hike the cost of beer in America.

President Ford offered personal assurances, in a filmed address to the longshoremen, that the grain agreement with Russia would prove beneficial to the United States.

But the ILA resolution stated: "The record of the present administration ... does not inspire confidence in its ability to protect the vital interest of this nation

Egypt Agrees To UN Proposal

By UPI

Egypt has agreed to a proposal to let U.N. peacekeeping forces stay in the Sinai Desert for three more months but an Israeli call for face-to-face talks between the two countries has raised a new threat to negotiations for an interim peace accord.

Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin issued the new demand in Jerusalem Wednesday as Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said in Cairo he opposes "direct talks in any form."

Sadat told the United Nations Wednesday he had changed his mind and would agree to let the 3,900 U.N. troops stay in the Sinai until Oct. 24. The mandate authorizing the force expires today.

The U.N. Security Council called a meeting later today to formally approve keeping the international troops in the buffer zone between Egyptian and Israeli forces.

Rabin, addressing a women's convention in Jerusalem, said Israel had agreed to let the United States mediate the Middle East peace talks "because of our determination to explore and to seek an interim agreement."

"But at the last phase of the negotiations before an agreement between Israel and Egypt will be signed, there must be face-to-face meetings between the delegates of our two countries," he said.

The prime minister said he doubts Israel and Egypt can achieve an agreement without direct talks. He said he doubts that any pact reached indirectly "will mean what it should mean once it is achieved."

Israel has periodically demanded face-to-face talks since 1948 but Rabin's statement marked the first public mention of such a step during negotiations for a new military disengagement accord in the Sinai.
